Young roofer aids in repair

Tommy Nubert, 11, of St. Louis and Robert Cooper of Sikeston are two of the dozens of workmen replacing roofs in Sikeston. Young Nubert is assisting in the roofing work while visiting his grandfather, Freeman Parker, who is in the roofing business. Damage from May's severe hail storm caused many houses in Sikeston to need complete roof replacement. Most roofing companies in the Sikeston area have been taking on much bigger than normal work schedules since the storm. One company contacted today, has roofed 25 houses since the storm and has nearly 60 waiting in line. Homeowners insurance policies are paying for most of the damage done to roofs by hail. Nixon off to Moscow to push cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon left today for a Moscow summit with a pledge to seek closer cooperation with the Soviet Union and a lessening of "the burden and threat" of nuclear weapons.

In a brief statement before leaving nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Nixon listed three goals for his summit meeting with Soviet leaders:

—To strengthen U.S.-Soviet ties.

—To "develop areas of cooperation to displace areas of confrontation" elsewhere in the world, and

—To progress toward limiting "both the burden and threat of nuclear weapons."

The Moscow summit is expected to produce a partial ban on underground nuclear weapons tests and an agreement in principle to harness fast-developing nuclear technology.

But Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference Monday that the third annual summit is unlikely to produce a comprehensive treaty limiting offensive ncuear weapons.

Nixon, Kissinger and a huge entourage were to stop first in Brussels so Nixon can sign a new declaration of trans-Atlantic cooperation with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on Wednesday.

Nixon said he hoped the declaration to be signed there would bring "new purpose and new direction" to the alliance.

The chief executive spoke informally to a group of White House employes before making the helicopter ride to Andrews.

The presidential party, including Mrs. Nixon, departed from Andrews at 8:42 a.m.

In Brussels, Nixon will confer also with Italian Prime Minister Mariano Rumor, West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and NATO officials.

He will spend a week in the Soviet Union, arriving there Thursday. Top subject on his agenda is nuclear weapons controls.

"For the United States not to make a major effort in this field is something no future generation could possibly understand," Kissinger told a presummit news conference.

But, he said, the administration will not be deterred by allegations that it is engaged in bad-faith diplomacy designed to blunt the congressional impeachment drive against the President.

Petition ordinance passes

DEXTER — An ordinance providng specific requirements for petitions submitted to the Board of Aldermen was passed at a special meeting of the board Monday night.

The ordinance states that each petition submitted to the board shall be signed by none but registered voters. Such petitions shall contain the legible signature of each petitioner, the street and house number in which the petitioner resides and the length of residence of each petitioner in the city of Dexter.

The signatures on the petition need not all be appended to one paper, but one of the signers of each paper shall present an affidavit stating that the signers were registered voters of the city of Dexter at the time of signing. Each signature also must be the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be.

The ordinance was passed as a result of a recent petition asking that an election be held on city manager form of government for the city. After examining the petition, the board determined that it contained several irregularities.

In other action, the council authorized Mayor Willis Conner and City Attorney Paul McGhee to negotiate for easements for construction on Arvin Road.

The council also decided to apply to the Bootheel Law Enforcement Assistance Council for a grant to be used to purchase radio communications equipment for the police department.

In a meeting with the press held today, Mayor Conner explained the city manager form of government and what it would mean for the city of Dexter.

Conner said city manager form of government would place all governing power in the hands of one man and would take away the representative form of government since alderman under the city manager system would not be required to live in any certain ward.

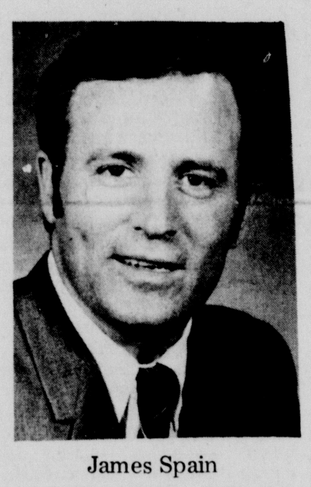

He compared Dexter with the city of Moberly which has population similar in size to Dexter and which has city manager form of government. In 1972, he said Moberly paid its administrative heads salaries of $150,000 a year, compared with approximately $17,500 paid to Dexter officials, including salaries for the mayor, council members, city clerk and city attorney.

He said the city manager form of government has been available since 1921 and only 34 cities and towns in Missouri have adopted this form of government. He further stated that once the form of government is adopted, it cannot be discontinued for a period of six years.

Mayor Conner said again he is not against hiring professional help if needed, but he feels city manager form of government would not be beneficial to Dexter at this time.

Reportedly, another petition for an election on the city manager form of government will be presented to the mayor and Board of Aldermen in the near future.

Spain may hold top post in state Democratic party

James Spain

BLOOMFIELD — James E. "Jim" Spain, Bloomfield attorney and former state representative, may be the next chairman of the Missouri Democratic Committee --- the Democratic Party's top post in the state.

Spain has disclosed that he "has been contacted by a number of people" and has "contacted a number of people concerning this job."

The chairman position is being vacated by David Donnelly of Lebanon who is stepping down at the end of this term.

Spain said today "it looks like quite probably I will be the next party head."

The new chairman will be elected in September.

Before being elected chairman, Spain said he would have to be elected to the committee from the 10th Congressional District.

"The party's nominee for the top of the ticket has substantial sayso in who the chairman will be," Spain said. He added that this is a tradition that has been followed in the past and probably will be again this year.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton, who is seeking re-election for a second term, will head the state Democratic ticket this year, Spain said. "The senator and I have discussed this (the chairmanship) on several occasions," he added.

When contacted today, Eagleton said he is looking at the possibilities and that the name of Spain has been mentioned. The state's junior senator added that he believes Spain would be a good choice for the position.

Spain said he would welcome the position.

"I think 1974 is going to be a tremendous year ... for Democrats," added Spain, who said he is excited by the prospects.

While serving his third term as a Stoddard County state representative, Spain sought and won the Democratic nomination for state attorney general in 1972, although his bid to unseat incumbent Republican Atty. Gen. John Danforth was unsuccessful.

Spain is associated with the Briney, Welborn and Spain law firm in Bloomfield. He is a member of the Stoddard County Bar Association, Missouri Bar Association and American Bar Association.

Spain received his bachelor of arts degree from Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau and his law degree from University of Missouri - Columbia.

Sikeston hail damage will top $1 million

Over $1 million worth of damage to homes, automobiles and businesses in Sikeston have been assessed since the city was struck by severe hail storm May 8, according to local insurance representatives.

After nearly eight weeks since the storm, many honeowners are just discovering damages on their roofs. Local insurance agents claims adjusters and roof repairmen say they are flooded with clients daily.

Of the 11 insurance representatives contacted by The Daily Standard Monday, only three could provide accurate information concerning the number of claims filed with their companies since the storm. The three totaled 1,289 claims and one representative said he got as many as 10

Lewis injured in accident

Joseph Earl Lewis, 66, of Route Three, was injured in a two- car accident Monday afternoon at the intersection of South Kingshighway and IGA Road.

Lewis was treated at a doctor's office for his injuries, according to police.

Police said the accident occurred at 2 p.m. when a car driven west on IGA Road by Virginia Lee Armstrong, 61, of 707 Taylor St. pulled onto South Kingshighway and struck the side of the Lewis car. Lewis was southbound at the time of the accident.

Police said no arrests were made.

Burning trash ignites grass

Firemen were called at 5:55 p.m. Monday to a grassfire near Security Federal Savings and Loan Association on North Main Street.

The fire, caused by sparks from a barrel of burning trash, burned off about a quarter of an acre of grass before being extinguished, firemen said.

Grants alloted to SeMo towns

Five Southeast Missouri communities are scheduled to receive $311,353 in federal grants for sewer construction in 1974-75, following action Monday by the Missouri Clean Water Commission in Jefferson City.

After four hearings on the Commission's priority list, members alloted $171,000 to Bernie, $88,290 to Essex, $37,760 to Hayti, $10,000 to Fisk and $4,303 to Hayti Heights.

Fifty- four other communities, counties and water and sewer districts were selected from nearly 100 in the running for the $74.5 million in federal funds allotted to Missouri for the next fiscal year for site acquisition, planning or construction of sewer facilities.

The Commission alloted $48.2 million for sewer construction, more than $16 million to be held in reserve for cost increases and planning grants to be approved during the next fiscal year. About $10 million will go to fund projects for which money was promised in the 1973-74 fiscal year.

Criteria for setting priorities was based on severity of pollution, population affected, preservation of high quality water, type of treatment and rate of stream flow at the discharge.

Imposter sought for theft

A man claiming to represent the Scott County health department is being sought for the theft of $15 from the home of Mrs. Mildred Lott, Route four, between 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. Monday, according to Scott County Deputy Sheriff Gerald Inman.

Inman said the man arrived at the Lott house, three miles northwest of Sikeston on Tanner Road, and said he was from the health department. The man said he was there to spray her house because some people had been hospitalized because of roaches in their homes.

The man told Mrs. Lott to mix the spray with two teaspoons of sugar and salt and put in the the bathroom in a coffee cup.

When she went to the bathroom the man cut the telephone wires and searched the bedroom.

Mrs. Lott said he took $15 from under a mattress and then left.

She described him as a fat man in his 40s, driving a white late - model car.

Thermometer falls, so do records

Low temperature records were broken today in at least 28 communities from Grand Rapids, Mich. to Brownsville, Ga. and from St. Joseph, Mo. to Columbus, Ga., according to Haydn Fox, meteorologist in charge of the United States Weather Service in Cairo, Ill.

A record low was established at St. Louis today for the second straight day. The 50- degree reading broke the previous low of 54 degrees set in 1958. An early morning reading of 44 at Springfield broke the previous low of 50 in 1958. Record lows of 54 in Kansas City and 50 at St. Joseph were tied this morning.

Though no permanent records were available for the Southeast Missouri area, temperatures in the low 50s this week are considerably below the normal 80 degrees, according to Leonard Hand, agriculture meteorologist with the National Weather Service in Portageville.

Fox said the current cold-wave was caused by a high pressure system that moved into the Midwest over the weekend with cooler Canadian air.

According to Fox, some meteorology theorists think the earth may be experiencing cooler climates due to increased air pollution that blocks sunrays.

Police brutality charges will bring investigation

POPLAR BLUFF — Mayor Denny Lanning has promised an investigation into charges of brutality by Poplar Bluff police officers.

The charges were made by Jimmy D. Coats, now Chaffee police chief. Coats was suspended from the Poplar Bluff department in February 1973 after he allegedly slapped two teen-agers.

"All the councilmen are aware of it (Coats' charges)," Lanning said today, "and they are looking into it."

He said the council may hold a special meeting to review the situation and that he doesn't know how long an investigation will take.

Coats said the alleged brutality occurred during late 1972 and early 1973.

Incidents included a prisoner being dragged down a flight of stairs, with his head striking each step, and prisoners being interrogated while standing on a chair with a noose around their neck and the chair kicked as though to be knocked out from under them.

Four other police officers have asked for an investigation of an incident which they claim occurred last October.

The other officers, William DePriest, William Taylor, Edward Cook and Larry Bacon, said, "We feel that a criminal act has been committed against a civilian."

Bacon's signed statement, portions of which were published in a St. Louis newspaper, said that in October 1973 a man named Steven Powell was arrested on a city warrant. During interrogation, Lt. Haywood Harris, "with his right hand grabbed Powell's neck and shirt and pulled his head back down over the chair. Lt. Harris then struck Powell eight to 10 times in the face with his left hand."

"At no time did Powell offer any resistance except to try to cover his face with his hands," Bacon added.

Other officers tried to pull Harris away, Bacon said, and were finally successful in

THE MINIMUM
WAGE LAW

The new minimum wage law, enacted by Congress earlier this year, went into effect on May 1. Predictably, the law, for all its good intents, already is causing significant unemployment among some groups that need employment the most.

For the first time, domestic workers are included in the minimum wage provisions. There is no doubt that these low- income workers will find it increasingly difficult to find employment at the $1.90 minimum that must be paid them.

And, as summer approaches, the Labor Department reports that, from all indications, teenagers find it very difficult to find jobs. One key reason for low earnings among the young in the past has been that their employment has included a considerable element of on- the - job training. Now, however, they must be paid the same as adults and many employers will opt for experienced workers rather than these youthful, inexperienced job seekers.

Unemployment rates for the young are already far too high and last year averaged three to four times the overall national unemployment rate. President Nixon warned last fall in vetoing the first minimum wage bill passed by Congress that, unless a special exemption was made for hiring the young, a minimum wage bill would "delay — or even prevent — their start toward economic improvement, and create greater demoralization for the age group which should be most enthusiastically involved in America's world of work."

Employers face their own special problems from the new law. Farm workers' wages, at a minimum of $1.30 prior to May 1, will go up more than one-third, to $1.80, by January 1, 1975. Their minimum will reach $2.30 by 1978. Workers in most other categories must be paid $2.10 by next January and will be paid $2.30 by January 1, 1976.

The minimum wage law must be respected and obeyed. At the same time, however, we urge Congress to take a hard look at its potential negative effects with a view toward altering the law in the near future if it appears necessary.

THIS ISN'T
BIG SPRINGS
COUNTRY

For purposes of promoting tourism, the Missouri Tourism Commission has for the past several years published a pamphlet full of beautiful illustrations of the various sections of the state.

Now that the Bond administration has come to power in Jefferson City, we note that the Delta area of Missouri no longer exists — at least for purposes of tourism.

The Bootheel area of Missouri, which is close in climate, topography, economy and sentiments, to the nation's Southland, is now, according to the Missouri Tourism Commission, a part of the "Big Springs" region of the state.

Perhaps the present members of the Tourism Commission have never visited either the Big Springs region or the Delta area. Certainly no one from those regions is currently a member of the Tourism Commission, which has representation from St. Louis, Cabool, Carthage, Cassville, Silver Dollar City, Kansas City, Hannibal and Osage Beach.

If these people had visited the southeastern quarter of the state, we are certain they would not have lumped our area in with the Big Springs region.

The folks from Cape Girardeau north to Ste. Genevieve are also unhappy over the new Tourism booklet, since their "Old Settlement" Area, like our "Delta Area" is now a part of "Big Springs" country.

We think the Big Springs region is beautiful, and worthy of promotion in this booklet. It may even have more to offer tourists than the Delta Contry and the River counties to the north of us.

But it is downright misleading to tell a tourism, at least by implication, that he will find in our area of the state attractions similar to those of the Big Springs area.

We urge the commission to remedy the situation in the future editions of its pamphlet, and hope Governor Bond will appoint to the Tourism Commission someone who has at least passing acquaintance with those areas of the state which have received short shrift from this publicity agency of our state government.

Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen hit the nail on the head when he said restoration of discipline in all phases of American life is required if the current trend of moral decline in the U. S. is to be reversed.

The noted churchman said "the only place discipline is maintained is at West Point, Annapolis, the Air Force Academy, and on the professional football field."

He went on further to say that he was concerned about the breakdown of American family life and the widespread disrespect for the sacredness of life, exemplified by the acceptance of abortion by many persons.

Because of the prevalence of crime and dishonesty today, he said, it is hard to tell young persons that Americans regularly left their homes unlocked just 30 or 40 years ago.

Lack of discipline is the primary cause of most of our troubles today. When Daniel Ellsberg stole the Pentagon Papers thousands condoned the act and tried to make a martyr out of him. You must remember that Ellsberg was highly paid and took an oath to defend the Constitution when he took the job.

Many government employees regulary sell confidential secrets to such newsmen as Jack Anderson, the New York Times, Washington Post and other commentators and newspapers. These men and women are paid money to betray their trust and seldom are they ever punished.

Criminal laws are so lenient it is possible to kill ten or more people in some States and get off with a life sentence. Many first offenders can rob a bank and then are put on probation. Other serious crimes are handled lightly especially if the culprits have 'good' lawyers.

It's easy to get bail and many offenders walk the streets for months until their trial comes up which usually can be delayed almost indefinitely.

Discipline is lacking in most schools, especially the universities where just about anything goes. Appeasement is universal and no one wants to punish anyone except possibly Nixon mainly because of his political ties.

As long as strict discipline is frowned on you can be certain crime and dishonest acts will continue to run rampant.

It is high time we take a good long look at our so-called laws and start enforcing them before the entire judicial code collapses from its own weight.

Sooner or later, a man, if he is wise, discovers that business life is a mixture of good days and bad, victory and defeat, give and take. He learns that ...

— it doesn't pay to be a sensitive soul — that he should let some things go over his head.

— he who loses his temper usually loses.

— all men have burned toast for breakfast now and then, and that he shouldn't take the other fellow's grouch too seriously.

— carrying a chip on his shoulder is the easiest way to get into a fight.

— it doesn't matter so much who gets the credit as long as the business shows a profit.

— buck- passing usually turns out to be a boomerang.

— it doesn't do any harm to smile and say, "Good morning," even if it is raining.

— a lot of other fellows are as ambitious as he is, that they have brains that are as good or better, and that hard work and not cleverness is the secret of success.

—most bosses are not monsters trying to get the last ounce of work out of him for the least amount of pay.

— the gang is not any harder to get along with in one place than another, and that "getting along" depends about 98 per cent on his own behavior.

A MIXED BLESSING

According to a press report, the federal Food and Drug Administration alone ordered the recall of more than 1,400 products last year. The list included 365 foods, 927 drugs, 90 devices and 44 cosmetics. Everyone is familiar with the recall of autos by auto companies.

Unquestionably, the recall of products for correction of defects is often in response to legitimate complaints. But, there is another side to the recall of products that few of us pause to think about. As the press report states: "Did you ever wonder who pays the expenses of recalling a product found to be faulty... Large, financially strong companies so far have chosen to rely on self-insurance. Many smaller companies are badly exposed, with neither the insurance nor the capability of surviving a recall. Such companies are facing growing risks and maybe even bankruptcy as their products encounter government and customer vigilance against items considered to be health or safety hazards."

Here again is an illustration of how everyone is penalized when legitimate concern for the consumer's welfare gives way to consumer fanaticism. It i well to remember that every time a product must be recalled there is a good chance that jobs may be put in jeopardy and that a company may face the possibility of bankruptcy.

AMTRAK PROVES
WALKING'S FASTER

Yes, Virginia, there is an Amtrak — if you can find it.

The experience of one would-be train traveler in Cleveland may not be typical, since that city is not among those served by the government - run passenger railroad network. But it does suggest that the folks at Amtrak are not exactly going out of their way to woo people back to trains.

Time: 9:00 a.m. Wanting a timetable for lines from Chicago to the West Coast, he first tried to get hold of Amtrak. No soap. Number in telephone book was "not in service." Finally called Penn Central freight department, where someone came up with a Watts (toll-free) number in New York.

Dialed and dialed. Busy singal. Got the operator. She got a line to a recording which said that the call would be handled "sequentially," which evidently meant something like "all deliberate speed," as they say in the legal profession.

Line went dead.

Dialed again. This time got a recorded announcement that "due to the energy crisis all lines are tied up."

More dialing and waiting. Finally at 12:17 p.m. reached a nice lady who said she would refer the request for a timetable to "special service."

Elapsed time: 3 hours, 17 minutes. In one more hour, he could have been on the West Coast by plane from Cleveland.

And that's only the beginning, he says. First he's got to get to Chicago before he can even find a train.

Wrong. First he's got to get the timetable, courtesy of the U. S. Postal Service.

SENATE REJECTS
PSYCHOLOGICAL PRIVACY
FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

By a vote of 43 to 40, the United States Senate has struck down an amendment to the latest federal aid to education bill to protect the psychological and personal privacy of school children. The amendment would have required parents to be notified when highly personal psychological tests or "behavior- alternation and value- modification" techniques were to be used on their children; it would have retained the right of parents to refuse permission for their children to take these tests or undergo these techniques in any federally funded program.

The National Education Association opposed the amendment, stating flatly that the school official has a "more fundamental right" than parents "to determine whether the child should be subject to programs of behavior-alteration and value-modification." The Nixon Administration, according to thyWashington Post, opposed the amendment because it would allegedly "stifel research, questionnaires and experimental programs of real educational value."

The psychological tests at issue involve probing personal questions for children about their home life and their parents.

A few usually right- side Senators voted against the amendment, apparently unaware of its far- reaching importance. With federal funding taking over more of public education, only action by Congress can safeguard the privacy and mental security of our children from those who seek to probe or even brainwash them without regard to the wishes of the parents.

20 YEARS LATER

PARIS — One of the main reason I came back to Paris was to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the breaking of the six- minute Louvre. It was exactly 20 years ago to the day that a young American student named Peter Stone amazed the world by going through the Louvre museum in five minutes and 19 seconds.

As everyone knows, there are only three things worth seeing in the Louvre museum -- the Venus de Milo, the Winged Victory and the Mona Lisa. The rest of the stuff is all junk.

For years tourists have been trying to get through the Louvre as quickly as possible, see those three things and then go out shopping again.

Before World War II, the record for going through the Louvre was seven minutes and 14 seconds. But after the war, as clothes got lighter and cameras got smaller, people kept cutting down the time, and in 1948 a man known as the Swedish Cannonball, paced by his Welsh wife, did it in six minutes and 12 seconds. For the first time, there was serious talk of breaking the six- minute Louvre.

But it was to be four more years. On June 18, 1954, Peter Stone, under perfect tourist conditions, literally flew through the Louvre, around the Venus de Milo, up past the Winged Victory, down to the Mona Lisa and back out again into a waiting taxi. He achieved the impossible, bringing fame and wealth to himself and glory to his country.

President Eisenhower personally sent him a telegram which read: "I rejoice with all Americans at your amazing feat. You're what the United States is all about."

So here I was 20 years later at the Louvre museum with Peter Stone to relive that great moment in history.

Stone, now middle- age, paunchy and slightly gray, went unrecognized by most of the tourists who were going through the Louvre. As we went over the same course, he noted, "It's all different now. There are very few American tourists any more, and it's only a matter of time before the Japanese will take the record away from us."

"Peter, I was there the day you broke the six- minute Louvre," I said. "I remember your telling me at the time that you were going to do it. What made you so sure?"

"I had discovered something that nobody else knew," he said as we walked around the Venus de Milo, "and that was you didn't have to pay admission on Sunday mornings to get into the Louvre. In that way, I could cut 20 seconds from my time. The second thg I did was leave the film out of my camera. I carried less weight than other tourists. Finally, I had developed a nonskid sneaker in the States so I could make the sharp turns around the Winged Victory without slipping on the marble."

We walked up the marble staircase past the Winged Victory. "This is where I made up 30 seconds," Peter said. "Most tourists look at the back of the Winged Victory, but I said to myself, 'If you 've seen one Winged Victory, you've seen them all,' and I just whizzed by without stopping."

"What did you do after you broke the 6-minute Louvre?" I asked Peter.

"I did some exhibition running at the Prado in Spain and the Tate Gallery in London. The Russians invited me to run through the Hermitage in Leningrad. It was the first tiem the Soviets had ever asked an American to race through one of their museums. But it was during the height of the cold war and John Foster Dulles wouldn't let me do it."

"So here it is 20 years later. What happens to a Louvre champ as time goes on?"

Peter replied: "The legs go first, then the wind and finally the eyes. I doubt if I can get through the Louvre in 10 minutes now in any condition."

We arrived at where the Mona Lisa hung when Peter had broken the record. The picture wasn't there! I asked an old guard, "Where is the Mona Lisa?"

The guard shrugged his shoulders and replied: "in Japan."

Tears came to Peter's eyes as he said: "It figures."

God, Grapes and Pickets: Powerful Hosts of Major Religions Rally To Chavez as He Marches Boycott Into East

NEW YORK — Open-collared, tieless, and a spiritual aura almost a haze around him, farm workers' leader Cesar Chavez is marching east leading hosts of clergymen. Wherever he comes now, leaving the grapevines and lettuce fields behind him, there spring up massed phalanxes of priests, ministers, rabbis, nuns, seminary students and some militant labor leaders ready to shout boycott and defiance against the big Teamster Brotherhood.

Rarely, if ever, has there been such a legion of churchmen throwing themselves into a jurisdictional labor "dispute." This conflict now is more revival than a Chavezian fight for survival.

Wherever the slim little Chicano chief goes, folk singers are at his side, church and temple doors open, and there's a strange welding of nostalgic old radicalism and new "militantism" such as personified by William Kunstler, all in turn blended with ecclesiastical fervor.

In most big cities now being, or about to be, visited by Chavez, the action pattern is virtually the same. Few presidential candidates ever moved with more precision. Or with better advance men. In the morning usually there is a conference with an ecumenical clerical group -- leaders of the three major religions.

Then comes the labor reception. Ecumenical too. Here gather, probably at a luncheon, officials of the AFL-CIO, the United Auto Workers, the United Mine Workers, and other independents.

Finally in the evening there is the inevitable "mass" rally in a church. In this city these church meetings will shortly be in St .Paul the Apostle Church and the Broadway Temple-Washington Heights United Methodist Church. On July 1 in Paterson (N.J.) they will gather in St. John's Cathedral. In Philadelphia the other week it was in a Unitarian house of worship, after a lunchtime session in a teachers' union headquarters.

These are mighty hosts -- especially when coupled with AFL-CIO president George Meany.

But Teamsters chief Frank Fitzsimmons, in truck- stop jargon, is telling them to go to perdition.

Instead they are heading for giant shopping centers -- concentrating on big supermarket chains and produce distribution markets.

They have the contacts. Fitzsimmons has the contracts -- some 316 growers, hiring an average of 50,000 grape- and lettuce- pickers in season. They have the pickets and what almost literally has become a holy war. And Fitzsimmons claims they have the media's sympathy -- and he can't get the Teamsters viewpoint before the public as Chavez begins pushing his grape and lettuce boycott up and down the East Coast.

It's pointed out that not "all" the clergy is with the Chavez- Meany coalition. There is, for example, the pastor of Our Lady of Soledad Church, Coachella, Calif. -- where the action is. This is Father Richard Humphrys. His hosts are his parishioners, mostly Chicanos.

Father Richard makes these points:

"It is stated that all or most farmworkers live in poverty. One church paper printd in Long Island (N.Y.) went so far as to say that 'the average income of a farmworker family of four is $3,170.' Both the Teamsters and UFW contracts bring workers in the grape vineyards over $3 an hour.

"There is a base pay of $2.51 in the UFW contract and $2.41 in the Teamster contract. In addition, workers receive pay for considerable piecework that brings the total to over $3 an hour ... (and) workers receive 10 cents an hour on a health plan, 10 cents an hour on a pension plan (in the Teamsters). UFW receives 2 cents a box or about 1.5 cents an hour."

The Teamsters contract provides for unemployment insurance, social security, workingmen's compensation, etc. --"The grower is paying the maximum amount he can at this time and stay in business."

Father Richard asks for evenhanded criticism of both unions, the Teamsters new Local 1973 and the United Farm Workers.

Further, says Father Richard, "The Teamsters have unemployment insurance whereas the UFW does not. this costs the growers 3.9 per cent of gross wages and is one of the benefits farmworkers need most." Earlier the priest said, "Teamster contracts cost growers more than UFW contracts. The most recent Teamster contract ... cost growers 5 per cent more than any table grape contract in California."

Thus there seems to be a struggle between the hard-nosed traditional unionsim of the Treamsters and the evangelicalism of Cesar Chavez, seeking to lead his own people on the very soil on which they live.

If Father Richard is right, the issue of the boycott actually is whether a giant union or one of their own shall lead the "stoop" labor of the "factories in the fields."

The issue is the eternal battle between the avant-garde and the establishment. The issue should be decided eventually not on the concrete of urban America but by the pickers themselves in the California valleys -- before sidewalks are bloodstained, commerce disrupted, and civil war flash- fire through religious orders and the labor movement.

If the farm workers can prosper under either leadership, let them now be given the voice and means to decide which house they shall enter.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
New CIA Watergate Link

WASHINGTON - CIA front man Robert Bennett, son of veteran Sen. Wallace Bennett, R-Utah, has conceded that he knew a White House burglary- bugging team was on the prowl in advance of the celebrated Watergate break- in.

A secret memorandum, written by his CIA case officer, states that the senator's son withheld vital information from the authorities.

In an interview with my associate Les Whitten, Bennett acknowledged he knew at least three days before the Watergate burglary that White House aide E. Howard Hunt and his second- story crew had plotted to break into the campaign headquarters of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and bug the place.

Instead of reporting the conspiracy to the police, Bennett kept his mouth shut. He also confided to his CIA contact that he had held back information from the original Watergate prosecutors when they later questioned him about the Watergate break- in.

Had Bennett informed the police of the plot to bust into McGovern headquarters, as the law requires, the subsequent Watergate caper would have been aborted and the course of history might have been changed.

This episode is another link in the mysterious CIA involvement in Watergate. We uncovered the first piece of the puzzle as early as April 7, 1973, when we reported that the CIA had "ordered its agents not to talk to the FBI about the explosive Watergate case." Thereafter, we published several reports about the CIA and Watergate, but the full story still hasn't been told.

The CIA used Bennett's public relations firm, Mullen and Company, as a spy front. On its payroll was none other than Howard Hunt, the Watergate conspirator, who came to the firm from the CIA and later moved over to the White House.

Bennett's nephew referred a Brigham Young University student, named Thomas Gregory, to Hunt who recruited the young man as a political spy. Gregory infiltrated into the campaigns of the President's two chief Democratic rivals -- first, Sen. Edmund Muskie's staff, then Sen. George McGovern's staff.

But Gregory, a conscientious Mormon, became uneasy about his undercover work. He spoke to his bishop about it, who was concerned about the ethics of the job.

Then Gregory went back to Bennett and explained his misgivings. As Bennett related it, Gregory had been told by Hunt to work late one night at McGovern headquarters and leave a door open so the White House burglars could sneak in.

Gregory informed Bennett that Hunt was "reporting to someone higher up." Hunt's White House connections impressed young Gregory. Bennett said he also felt Hunt would do nothing illegal because "he had a full - time lawyer advising him." The lawyer, it turned out, was Hunt's co- conspirator, G. Gordon Liddy.

Bennett said he advised Gregory "to get out." The troubled student gave Bennett a letter of resignation to deliver to Hunt. Two days later, the Hunt- Liddy team broke into the Watergate.

Bennett was called in for questioning six times by the original Watergate prosecutors. He held back Gregory's vital information out of loyalty to the youth, Bennett claims.

But the prosecutors traced Bennett's long- distance telephone toll calls to Gregory. When Bennett learned this, he called the prosecutors and said: "Look, you've found Tommy. I'll tell you about Tommy."

This helped the prosecutors to break the Watergate case.

PENTAGON PUPPET: Once again, we have caught Rep. F. Edward Hebert; D-La., playing Charlie McCarthy to the Pentagon's Edgar Bergen. Perched upon the Defense Department's knee, he opens his mouth and the military speaks.

A month ago, we reported that Hebert, the imperious chairman of the House Armed Service Committee, had presented to the House a report on military aid to Saigon which was copied, virtually word for word, from Pentagon testimony.

Now, the crusty, old congressional "watchdog" has done it again. Included in his committee report on the Pentagon's supplemental budget request is a section on the Navy's proposal for a permanent base on the Indian Ocean island of Diego Garcia.

It is practically a carbon copy of testimony offered by Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, the Navy chief, before a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on March 20.

Apparently, Hebert's only disagreement with the Pentagon is over grammar. He tinkered slightly with the Navy's paragraphing and punctuation. He also edited out some of Zumwalt's "I's" and "We's" and substituted a few "observers."

"I always knew Hebert and his boys were pushovers for the Pentagon," one of Hebert's committee told us, "but I never expected them to prove it so decisively. I am ashamed to say that right now the committee is nothing but a rubber stamp for the Pentagon."

Footnote: Repeated calls to the committee for comment have not been returned.

Real Estate

By CHARLES MITCHELL

REALTOR

WRONG PRICING LOGIC

If you try to sell your home yourslef, how do you set a realistic price? Most people base their price tags on the only facts known to them: original price, cost of improvements, and hoped-for profit. Then they adjust to bring their figure in line with what they think similar homes are bringing. Sounds reasonable, but three of the basic facts are irrevelent, and the fourth is highly dubious.

The original price, improvements, and hopef-for profit only determine whether you gain or lose, but they have nothing to do with the right price to produce a sale. Prices of other homes may give you some clue to the market, but most of the time you only hear of the asking price. If it's not a realistic price, it won't be the selling price.

How then do you set a realistic price? By consulting a local Realtor whose business it is to know how much property can bring and will bring. His knowledge of the market is invaluable.

Drug addicts find ways to get drugs

Dear Ann Landers: When I read that letter from the director of a hospital who mentioned pilfering of small items by hospital personnel, I knew I had to write.

Our 24- year- old daughter (college graduate and excellent student) left an unusually fine poition with a promising future to take a job for less pay in the accounting department of a suburban hospital. We couldn't understand it. She said she wanted to "be part of an institution that served humanity."

About three months later, the real reason became apparent. She wanted to become friendly with someone who could help her gain access to drugs.

It was a nightmare. She changed from a bright, energetic, outgoing person into a secretive, temperamental stranger. Some days she was talkative and full of energy. Other days she was depreseed and non- communicative. When I found a huge supply of pills and a syringe under her mattress, I knew the answers to many question that had us mystified.

She is under a doctor's care now and returning to her old self. But it's been an uphill fight all the way.

Why don't hospitals keep all narcotics under lock and key? I'm sure if this happened to our child it has happened to others. Thanks, Ann, for any boost you might give this crusade. -- Been Thru Hell

Dear B.: I know of no hospital that allows employees easy access to drugs. Almost all hospitals have a carefully monitored drug- dispensing system. But no system is fail-safe. Drug addicts are among the cleverest of all thieves, and the most daring as well. When drugs become the center of a person's existence, he will figure out a way to get them.

Dear Ann Landers: I've seen some letters in your column from teen-agers who do baby- sitting, but I've never read a letter from a "career-sitter."

I've "raised" over 50 children, from newborns to 11 years of age. Some mothers still insist on calling me "the baby- sitter." ("Say hello to the baby- sitter.") I have a name and the kids use it, so why can't their parents?

Staying with youngsters has been my only source of income for many years. I pay taxes on my earnings. Yet, I've had mothers call and cancel two hours before I was due to leave the house. "Mary is going to stay with a friend," they say, or, "My hustand doesn't feel well and we've decided to stay home." Frequently I've turned down other jobs and saved the evening for them. But they never think to pay me when they cancel.

Most of the people I work for are sophisticated, yet they act as if they've never heard of overtime. When they say they'll be home at midnight, and arrive at 2:00 a.m., I get the same pay for my "night's work."

In spite of my complaints, I've been happy with my children. They've kept me active and saved me from loneliness. I guess I just wish people would be more considerate and I figured your column was a good place to tell them. -- Granny

Dear Granny: Your complaints could be easily remedied if you would discuss them with your employers instead of Ann Landers.

Tell them you expect to be paid if they cancel without giving 24 hours notice. Charge by the hour instead of the job if people don't know the meaning of "overtime." And when they refer to you as "the baby- sitter," remind them that you have a name. Simple, isn't it?

Are you, or is someone you care about messing around with drugs -- or considering it? Are all drugs bad? What about pot -- in moderation? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs," separates the facts from the fiction. For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill plus a long, self- addressed envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Gibson shows top form

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "You never cruise, especially against a ball club like that," a perspiring Bob Gibson maintained.

The aging Gibson, staked to an early lead, undelined the notation Monday night by bearing down and stopping the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0 on a four-hitter.

His top performance of the season checked his string of defeats at five and capped a St. Louis Cardinal sweep of a doubleheader.

"Sometimes you just have to pitch yourself out of a rut," observed Gibson, 4-8, who struck out 11 and walked three following a 3-1 Cards triumph in the opener.

"I felt fairly good tonight," he conceded, "but I've been feeling good for the past two or three weeks.

"Basically it was a matter of not hanging a lot of sliders like I'd been doing. I think I'd been hanging one out of every three."

The 38-year-old Gibson permitted singles to Paul Popovich, Gene Clines and Mike Ryan and a double to Richie Zisk leading off the fourth.

But he fanned Pirates rookie Mario Mendoza after a spectacular catch by Lou Brock thwarted a second-inning threat and struck out Willie Stargell and Kurt Bevacqua after Zisk doubled.

Meanwhile, Pirates pitcher Larry Demery, 0-3, surrendered Jim Dwyer's first major league home run in the second and served a three-run homer to Ted Simmons an inning later.

"I've been throwing the ball good for a month," insisted Gibson, wo has yielded 12 home runs, "but I've been giving up that long ball after a walk."

The Cards, who totaled only five hits, also made the most of six singles in the opener.

Four of the blows included run-producing smashes by Ken Reitz and Mike Tyson in the second off ex-Cardinal Jerry Reuss, 6-5, and a third run scored on an error.

Right-hander Alan Foster, 35, survived Richie Hebner's leadoff home run in the sixth and drew relief help from Orlando Pena and Mike Garman the final two innings.

Pirates Manager Danny Murtaugh, whose club has lost five of six games since winning six straight, was down following the double loss.

"I thought when we hit that streak we might be going," Murtaugh lamented. "Now it looks like we've cooled off again."

WFL resumes recruiting

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The World Football League has vowed to "vigorously continue" efforts to sign National Football League players after a Texas appellate court ruling that cleared the way for WFL recruiting of Dallas Cowboy athletes.

Appeals Court Judge Harold Bateman of Dallas reversed a lower court injunction Monday that had halted WFL recruiting of players from the National Football League team.

WFL Commissioner Gary L. Davidson, organizer of the new league, said the ruling confirmed the WFL's belief "in the freedom of competition between leagues and the freedom of players to have viable alternatives in choosing employers."

He added that the WFL "has not, and will not in the future, violate the valid terms of any presently existing contract ..." He said players obligated to the NFL for 1975 and who have signed with the WFL would not join the WFL until 1976.

Tex Schramm, Cowboys' president and general manager, said he would have no comment on Judge Bateman's decision until club attorneys read the opinion.

Texas District Court Judge Charles Long had issued an injunction that barred WFL recruiting of Cowboys Calvin Hill, Craig Morton and Mike Montgomery. The injunction was granted to the Cowboys, who described the WFL recruiting as "raiding."

Hill, Morton and Montgomery had signed contracts with Hawaii, Houston and Birmingham of the WFL, respectively.

Bateman disagreed with the Cowboys' claims that the WFL recruitment was illegal meddling in player contracts.

"We must consider the freedom of contract of the individual players as well as the rights of the club under its present contracts," he said.

"Bargaining for future services is a matter of economics. The club can assure itself of the continued services and loyalty of its players by offering them long term contracts and other financial inducements. If it chooses not to do so for economic reasons, it has no legal ground to complain if the players look elsewhere for their future careers and enter into contracts for services to be performed when their present contracts with the club expire."

The WFL also has signed a number of players from other NFL clubs to contracts for 1976. One club guaranteed $3.5 million to hire Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick from the Miami Dolphins.

Other NFL stars to sign with the fledgling league include quarterback Daryle Lamonica of Oakland, linebacker Bill Bergey of Cincinnati and running back Larry Smith of the Los Angeles Rams.

Davis puts on one man show in ML

Davis singled, doubled and homered to spark Kingsway Plaza to a 16-6 four-inning victory over the Bank of Sikeston to highlight Musial league play Monday night. Collins Construction pulled out a 8-7 decision over Rotary, scoring the winning run in the last of the sixth in the other league encounter.

Kingsway broke open a scoreless leadlock with eight big runs in the second inning while Bailey held the bank to two hits.

Merrell, Thompson and Johnson doubled to highlight the Plaza's 12 hit barrage that was led by Arnold and Davis' three for three showings.

Rotary did everything but post the win in the other game, out-hitting Collins 12-8 and rallying to tie the score at 7-7 in the top of the seventh to only lose the game in the bottom of the frame. A five run first inning by Collins spelled the difference.

Stinnett picked up the victory and got extra base hit backing from Kyle, who doubled.

Beaudean had four hits to pace the Rotary attack and McGill and O'Neal doubled for the losers.

Self, Daniels show strong arms

Pitching ruled the National Little League circuit Monday night as Kiwanis blanked the Lions 1-0 and Security National defeated Lewis Furniture 12-2.

Self held the Lions to only two hits and used the extra based slugging of Harper, who connected for a pair of doubled, to defeat King and his double hitting teammates, Branson and Winfield.

Daniels fell behind 2-0 in the first inning, but settled down and allowed Lewis only two hits on the night while his teammates, Rodgers, Williams and Shelton connected for two hits apiece for a six hit Security attack. Rodgers doubled for one of his hits.

Record toss

JOPLIN, Mo.(AP)—James Calvin Young, 18, claims to have broken a record Monday found only in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Young, whose only witness was his brother, Alan, says he threw a golfball around a regulation length course, from No. 1 tee through No. 18 green, in just 91 tosses.

This would shatter the old mark listed in the Guinness book of 93 tosses, set Oct. 5, 1971 by A. L. Gastin on the University of Missouri course in Columbia.

Alan Young, 20, said the Twin Hills Golf and Country Club course his brother zipped around Monday measured about 6,200 yards. The Guinness book says Gastin accomplished his feat on a 6,220-yard layout.

Pitching performances overshadowed

Despite the three hit pitching performance of Francis, Home Materials fell 3-2 to the Bank of Sikeston in Jr. Babe Ruth action Monday night. The Eagles recorded almost a similar feat by defeating Harts 7-1 despite the three hit hurling of Brown.

The bank scored runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings to give Launius the victory. Francis had two hits for Home Materials in their losing effort.

Cloud held Harts to eight hits and a fourth inning run while enjoying a five run seventh inning uprising to record the win.

Gilbow connected for a key double for the Eagles and Hampton hit one for Harts and had a perfect night at the plate with a three for three showing.

Lessons for Young Bicyclists to Learn

Chief Leon R. Culp
Sikeston Police Department

Lesson No. 8 - Country Riding Safety

Riding your bike in the country can be one of the most enjoyable adventures of biking. Before going on a bike trip in the country, it is wise to "check-out" all mechanical functions of your bicycle and make sure that everything is working in good order. If you don't do this, you may find yourself stranded a long way from home. Remember, even the captain of an airliner checks-out his plane before taking off, because he knows that he is responsible for anything that may happen to it, himself and others who may be flying with him.

Often when boys and girls go biking in the country they want to take along some supplies; food for an outdoor lunch the way, raincoat, a tent if they plan to be out over night, or other things of use on a trip. Anything you wish to take with you should be wrapped and carried on the back luggage carrier of your bike, and securely strapped down. This is to prevent the possibility of loose items getting tangled in the rear wheel or the bike chain.

When selecting the route you will take for your trip avoid highways you know are very busy. Of course, never travel on an interstate highway, as bicycles are not allowed on them.

Now, even though you are traveling on a highway that isn't very busy, you must remain just as alert as you are when you are riding in city streets. ALL traffic signals MUST still be obeyed. STOP signs still mean STOP, and do not fail to heed them. Think of it this way: if there is very little traffic and you are approaching a country stop sign and you see no cars coming from either direction. If you proceed through the stop intersection without stopping you are still taking a big chance. A car could easily come up over a hill, from one of the other directions, and if it were moving at high speed, it could be at the intersection in a few seconds.

The main thing to remember in country biking is that cars are traveling at higher speeds by far than they are in the city. This means that you must be extra cautious that you are riding WITH traffic, staying to the extreme right side of the road. Often you will see people on bikes riding on the far left side of the road, directly toward the oncoming traffic. This is WRONG! Do not do it! It is very dangerous.

If the weather becomes dark and cloudy, use your lights! Don't wait for it to become completely dark....a fast-moving car needs several hundred feet to see you! Make sure that you have on light colored clothing for all country riding.

Never, under any circumstances, ride in the middle of the road or do bike trick-riding in the country on the highway. There are too many hills and valleys that could hide an approaching car from your vision, and you from the driver's vision.

In country riding there are many occasions when you will want to stop and rest. Do your resting well back away from the highway. A speeding car could go out of control and go off the road quite easily, and if you were sitting right at the edge of the roadway you could be hit.

When you are riding in a group of other bicyclists, always ride SINGLE FILE! Never ride side-by-side! Many bicyclists have been killed because they did not obey this rule for safe country biking!

QUESTIONS	YES	NO
When riding in the country you can forget about traffic rules, if there are very few cars on the road..	___	___
Riding INTO traffic, on the left side of the road, is safe in the country.	___	___
When riding in a group of bicyclists, you should always ride in single file.	___	___
One BIG reason you must be especially careful in the country is because cars are traveling at higher speeds than in the city.	___	___
It is o.k. to do trick riding way out in the country, if you don't see anyone coming.	___	___

Theatre opera seats installed

50 years ago
June 25, 1924

Morehouse -- Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Teal, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Dunaway and Miss Hattie Harp motored to the Pottery Works, north of Dexter, Sunday.

The new opera seats have been installed in the Malone Theatre and they are a great improvement over the old ones. The arrangement is much better as two aisles have been left down the center and across to the side exits.

Fire broke out in the frame building owned by M. A. Arterburn and occupied by E. E. Ferrell as a butcher shop, south of the Frisco station Monday morning and was entirely consumed.

Morehouse -- John Bray, who makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. O. M. Headlee, will leave Friday for St. Louis for an extended visit with his daughter there.

40 years ago
June 25, 1934

Morley — Miss Mary Foster has been on the sick list the last few days.

Salcedo -- Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tate and family, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Tate and family and Mrs. Joe Tate were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ebert Duke, north of Sikeston.

Malone Theatre, today, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in "Change of Heart" with James Dunn and Ginger Rogers. Tomorrow, Spencer Tracy in "Now I'll Tell" with Helen Twelvetrees and Alice Faye.

Pharris Ridge -- Mr. and Mrs. James Lomax and children, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Lomax and sons and Mrs. Albert Moore and children were Lilbourn visitors Sunday.

When Prof. Charles Swartz comes here from Humbolt, Tenn., on July 4, to participate in the municipal airport dedication exercises, visitors at the field will see the first old-time balloon ascension staged in Sikeston for 22 years.

30 years ago
June 25, 1944

Oran — Mrs. Minnie Gouge moved to Steele recently.

Edwin T. Moon, 69 years old, a resident of Charleston for 29 years, died early Friday after being ill four years.

Mrs. V. L. Kirby and daughter, Sandra Lee, spent the weekend in Independence, Kas., with the former's brother- in- law and sister, T. and Mrs. Howard Kramer.

The Sikeston General Hospital has been removed from the approved list of hospitals by Dr. M. L. Gentry, director of the division of child hygiene of the State Board of Health. In a letter to Otto Muncorf, technician and business manager of the local hospital, Dr. Gentry said the action had been taken because requirements established by State Board had not been complied with. The charges are aimed specifically at the care of obstetrical cases.

Charleston -- Mrs. Erie Pomeray, 69, a life-long resident here, died this morning at St. Mary's Hospital in Cairo, Ill., where she had been admitted five hours earlier. She had been ill the past two and a half months, a victim of leukemia.

The Rev. and Mrs. Norbert John Lucht of Malden are parents of a son born at the Delta Community Hospital on Friday.

Mrs. Laura Slack, 86, a member of one of Sikeston's pioneer families, passed away in a Jefferson City nursing home Sunday after a long illness.

Charleston -- Services for U. E. Kinder of Glen Allen, father of Fred Kinder of Charleston, will be Tuesday. He died Sundav.

Honduras and El Salvador have been at war with each other since 1969. The conflict, touched off by a disputed soccer match, centers on the contested border and rights of Salvadorians in Honduras.

Prayer for today

"I can do all things in him who strengthens me." (Philippians 4:13)

PRAYER: O God, I have time to get food at the table for my physical needs. Teach me to have time for spiritual food to sustain my faith and fellowship. Give me the sense to examine my spiritual priorities. Amen.

What's the law?

The case of the renegging banker

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Mr. Jones, a banker, was no more nimble in passing out money than he was in crossing a street. In fact, had it not been for Elmer, who fortunately pulled him out of the way of an oncoming vehicle, he certainly would have been killed.

Very appreciative of Elmer's gallant effort, Mr. Jones pumped Elmer's hand with enough gusto to make water flow. What's more, he generously promised to give Elmer $1,000 for his heroic Deed.

When Elmer turned up at the bank, however, to collect the money, Mr. Jones' sense of appreciation had dampened considerably. He refused to pay Elmer the promised $1,000.

"You can't do that," protested Elmer. "You promised and a promise is a promise."

"Sure I promised," admitted Mr. Jones, "but bankers just don't go around giving away money. It's bad for their image and contrary to the nature and training. Besides, he added, "I had no obligation to make the promise so I have no obligation to keep it."

Disgusted with Mr. Jones, Elmer sued to collect the $1,000 in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the banker to renege on his promise?

This is how the judge guled: YES! The judge held that a contract is not binding unless somethiis given in exchange for something. And, in this case, noted the judge, Mr. Jones received nothing in exchange for his promise to pay Elmer $1,000. Elmer has performed his gallant and humanitarian act voluntarily and prior to any promise of payment having been made.

Burlison criticizes impeachment delay

WASHINGTON — Persons in Southeast Missouri and Americans generally feel "intense disgust" over the House's unwarranted delay in the presidential impeachment proceedings and are demanding a speedy conclusion, Rep. Bill D. Burlison, D-Mo., has said.

In an implied rebuke to House Democratic leaders, Burlison said virtually all of his 10th District constituents, regardless of their opinions about Nixon, "are united in their almost emotional insistence that the Congress get busy now and conclude the impeachment process."

His warning, underlined in a House speech by being explicitly addressed to House Speaker Carl Albert D-Okla., and Judiciary Committee chairman Peter W. Rodino D-N.J., represented one of the few instances where a Democrat was willing to break ranks openly and criticize his leaders' conduct of the impeachment proceeding.

Commenting on reports that the proceeding may drag on until after the November elections or even into 1975, Burlison said such a timetable "is totally unacceptable."

"What the final verdict may be is far less important to our citizens than that there be a verdict soon.

"Suffice it to say that our total governmental process is in a state of partial paralysis," Burlison said.

"We should put this malady behind us by facing the problem, making a decision and then uniting to move our country forward."

Burlison said he believes House Democratic leaders "are not aware" of public disenchantment with the slowness of the impeachment case.

"Of course, I can speak only for my people, but I believe they are representative of the entire country," he said.

"I realize a strong case can be made that the President has not been cooperative and has refused to provide tapes, documents and other evidence and has delayed the proceeding.

"It is my view, however, that our constituents would prefer us to give consideration to that action as an impeachable offense in itself, in preference to plodding through the courts in time- consuming efforts to enforce our subpoenas.

"Many of Missouri's 10th District voters feel Mr. Nixon has flagrantly betrayed his public trust and must be removed from office. Many others believe, in varying degrees, that he has committed improper or illegal acts, but that to remove him from office would not be in the best interest of our nation.

"There are yet others who say that the President is innocent and that the charges are contrived by the press and others bent on destroying him."

Despite this "polarization," Burlison said, "almost everyone in the three groups wants a final decision soon."

Demo committee okays delegate selection plan

JEFFERSON CITY — State Democratic chairman David Donnelly has announced the approval of Missouri's delegate selection plan by the Democratic National Committee.

Under the delegate selection plan, which was approved by the Democratic State Committee on June 1, Missouri will be allowed 53 delegates to the 1974 mid-term conference of the Democratic Party. The conference which will be hosted in Kansas City on Dec. 6-8 is charged with the responsibility of approving the charter for the Democratic Party.

Democratic Party chairman Robert Strauss, in his telephone message announcing the approval of the Missouri plan, indicated that 49 states have now had their delegate selection plans approved by the Democratic National Committee.

Castleberry to attend school

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Garland P.Castleberry, a native of Sikeston, Mo., presently employed by the Federal Aviation Administration, has been selected as a Princeton Fellow in public and international affairs and will attend the Woodrow Wilson School at Princeton University, according to FAA Administrator Alexander P. Butterfield.

Presently, executive secretary in the office of the FAA administrator, Castelberry was accepted into the education program for federal officials at mid career for studies beginning this fall. The Woodrow Wilson Fellowship at Princeton accepts five to 10 civil servants who have demonstrated high competence and unusual promise into the program each year.

A career civil servant with broad managerial experience, Castleberry began his career as an FAA air traffic controller in the Memphis center in 1958 and transferred to Washington in 1964. He has since served in a number of executive positions, including executive assistant to the deputy administrator, senior policy analyst and management analyst.

In 1965, Castleberry worked in both the Senate and House of Representatives as a Congressional fellow and later served as legislative and special assistant to Congressman Sam Gibbons, a post he held until 1969. He has received a number of awards for outstanding service during his government tenure.

A cum laude graduate of Memphis State University, the Woodrow Wilson appointee received his bachelor of business administration degree in 1963 and has also studied at George Washington University. He graduated from Sikeston High School in 1954.

Castleberry is married to the former Phyllis Alexander of Sikeston. They are the parents of five children.

Castleberry's mother, Mrs. Dorothy DeMaris, is a resident of Sikeston. His father, Paul Castleberry, lives in Pontiac, Mich.

Young roofer aids in repair

Tommy Nubert, 11, of St. Louis and Robert Cooper of Sikeston are two of the dozens of workmen replacing roofs in Sikeston. Young Nubert is assisting in the roofing work while visiting his grandfather, Freeman Parker, who is in the roofing business. Damage from May's severe hail storm caused many houses in Sikeston to need complete roof replacement. Most roofing companies in the Sikeston area have been taking on much bigger than normal work schedules since the storm. One company contacted today, has roofed 25 houses since the storm and has nearly 60 waiting in line. Homeowners insurance policies are paying for most of the damage done to roofs by hail. Nixon off to Moscow to push cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon left today for a Moscow summit with a pledge to seek closer cooperation with the Soviet Union and a lessening of "the burden and threat" of nuclear weapons.

In a brief statement before leaving nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Nixon listed three goals for his summit meeting with Soviet leaders:

—To strengthen U.S.-Soviet ties.

—To "develop areas of cooperation to displace areas of confrontation" elsewhere in the world, and

—To progress toward limiting "both the burden and threat of nuclear weapons."

The Moscow summit is expected to produce a partial ban on underground nuclear weapons tests and an agreement in principle to harness fast-developing nuclear technology.

But Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference Monday that the third annual summit is unlikely to produce a comprehensive treaty limiting offensive ncuear weapons.

Nixon, Kissinger and a huge entourage were to stop first in Brussels so Nixon can sign a new declaration of trans-Atlantic cooperation with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on Wednesday.

Nixon said he hoped the declaration to be signed there would bring "new purpose and new direction" to the alliance.

The chief executive spoke informally to a group of White House employes before making the helicopter ride to Andrews.

The presidential party, including Mrs. Nixon, departed from Andrews at 8:42 a.m.

In Brussels, Nixon will confer also with Italian Prime Minister Mariano Rumor, West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and NATO officials.

He will spend a week in the Soviet Union, arriving there Thursday. Top subject on his agenda is nuclear weapons controls.

"For the United States not to make a major effort in this field is something no future generation could possibly understand," Kissinger told a presummit news conference.

But, he said, the administration will not be deterred by allegations that it is engaged in bad-faith diplomacy designed to blunt the congressional impeachment drive against the President.

Petition ordinance passes

DEXTER — An ordinance providng specific requirements for petitions submitted to the Board of Aldermen was passed at a special meeting of the board Monday night.

The ordinance states that each petition submitted to the board shall be signed by none but registered voters. Such petitions shall contain the legible signature of each petitioner, the street and house number in which the petitioner resides and the length of residence of each petitioner in the city of Dexter.

The signatures on the petition need not all be appended to one paper, but one of the signers of each paper shall present an affidavit stating that the signers were registered voters of the city of Dexter at the time of signing. Each signature also must be the genuine signature of the person whose name it purports to be.

The ordinance was passed as a result of a recent petition asking that an election be held on city manager form of government for the city. After examining the petition, the board determined that it contained several irregularities.

In other action, the council authorized Mayor Willis Conner and City Attorney Paul McGhee to negotiate for easements for construction on Arvin Road.

The council also decided to apply to the Bootheel Law Enforcement Assistance Council for a grant to be used to purchase radio communications equipment for the police department.

In a meeting with the press held today, Mayor Conner explained the city manager form of government and what it would mean for the city of Dexter.

Conner said city manager form of government would place all governing power in the hands of one man and would take away the representative form of government since alderman under the city manager system would not be required to live in any certain ward.

He compared Dexter with the city of Moberly which has population similar in size to Dexter and which has city manager form of government. In 1972, he said Moberly paid its administrative heads salaries of $150,000 a year, compared with approximately $17,500 paid to Dexter officials, including salaries for the mayor, council members, city clerk and city attorney.

He said the city manager form of government has been available since 1921 and only 34 cities and towns in Missouri have adopted this form of government. He further stated that once the form of government is adopted, it cannot be discontinued for a period of six years.

Mayor Conner said again he is not against hiring professional help if needed, but he feels city manager form of government would not be beneficial to Dexter at this time.

Reportedly, another petition for an election on the city manager form of government will be presented to the mayor and Board of Aldermen in the near future.

Grants alloted to SeMo towns

Five Southeast Missouri communities are scheduled to receive $311,353 in federal grants for sewer construction in 1974-75, following action Monday by the Missouri Clean Water Commission in Jefferson City.

After four hearings on the Commission's priority list, members alloted $171,000 to Bernie, $88,290 to Essex, $37,760 to Hayti, $10,000 to Fisk and $4,303 to Hayti Heights.

Fifty-four other communities, counties and water and sewer districts were selected from nearly 100 in the running for the $74.5 million in federal funds allotted to Missouri for the next fiscal year for site acquisition, planning or construction of sewer facilities.

The Commission alloted $48.2 million for sewer construction, more than $16 million to be held in reserve for cost increases and planning grants to be approved during the next fiscal year. About $10 million will go to fund projects for which money was promised in the 1973-74 fiscal year.

Criteria for setting priorities was based on severity of pollution, population affected, preservation of high quality water, type of treatment and rate of stream flow at the discharge.

Imposter sought for theft

A man claiming to represent the Scott County health department is being sought for the theft of $15 from the home of Mrs. Mildred Lott, Route four, between 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. Monday, according to Scott County Deputy Sheriff Gerald Inman.

Inman said the man arrived at the Lott house, three miles northwest of Sikeston on Tanner Road, and said he was from the health department. The man said he was there to spray her house because some people had been hospitalized because of roaches in their homes.

The man told Mrs. Lott to mix the spray with two teaspoons of sugar and salt and put in the the bathroom in a coffee cup.

When she went to the bathroom the man cut the telephone wires and searched the bedroom.

Mrs. Lott said he took $15 from under a mattress and then left.

She described him as a fat man in his 40s, driving a white late - model car.

Thermometer falls, so do records

Low temperature records were broken today in at least 28 communities from Grand Rapids, Mich. to Brownsville, Ga. and from St. Joseph, Mo. to Columbus, Ga., according to Haydn Fox, meteorologist in charge of the United States Weather Service in Cairo, Ill.

A record low was established at St. Louis today for the second straight day. The 50- degree reading broke the previous low of 54 degrees set in 1958. An early morning reading of 44 at Springfield broke the previous low of 50 in 1958. Record lows of 54 in Kansas City and 50 at St. Joseph were tied this morning.

Though no permanent records were available for the Southeast Missouri area, temperatures in the low 50s this week are considerably below the normal 80 degrees, according to Leonard Hand, agriculture meteorologist with the National Weather Service in Portageville.

Fox said the current cold-wave was caused by a high pressure system that moved into the Midwest over the weekend with cooler Canadian air.

According to Fox, some meteorology theorists think the earth may be experiencing cooler climates due to increased air pollution that blocks sunrays.

Spain may hold top post in state Democratic party

BLOOMFIELD — James E. "Jim" Spain, Bloomfield attorney and former state representative, may be the next chairman of the Missouri Democratic Committee --- the Democratic Party's top post in the state.

Spain has disclosed that he "has been contacted by a number of people" and has "contacted a number of people concerning this job."

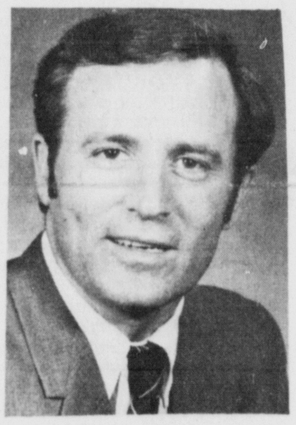

The chairman position is being vacated by David Donnelly of Lebanon who is stepping down at the end of this term.

Spain said today "it looks like quite probably I will be the next party head."

The new chairman will be elected in September.

Before being elected chairman, Spain said he would have to be elected to the committee from the 10th Congressional District.

"The party's nominee for the top of the ticket has substantial sayso in who the chairman will be," Spain said. He added that this is a tradition that has been followed in the past and probably will be again this year.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton, who is seeking re-election for a second term, will head the state Democratic ticket this year, Spain said. "The senator and I have discussed this (the chairmanship) on several occasions," he added.

When contacted today, Eagleton said he is looking at the possibilities and that the name of Spain has been mentioned. The state's junior senator added that he believes Spain would be a good choice for the position.

Spain said he would welcome the position.

"I think 1974 is going to be a tremendous year ... for Democrats," added Spain, who said he is excited by the prospects.

While serving his third term as a Stoddard County state representative, Spain sought and won the Democratic nomination for state attorney general in 1972, although his bid to unseat incumbent Republican Atty. Gen. John Danforth was unsuccessful.

Spain is associated with the Briney, Welborn and Spain law firm in Bloomfield. He is a member of the Stoddard County Bar Association, Missouri Bar Association and American Bar Association.

Spain received his bachelor of arts degree from Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau and his law degree from University of Missouri - Columbia.

Sikeston hail damage will top $1 million

Over $1 million worth of damage to homes, automobiles and businesses in Sikeston have been assessed since the city was struck by severe hail storm May 8, according to local insurance representatives.

After nearly eight weeks since the storm, many homeowners are just discovering damages on their roofs. Local insurance agents claims adjusters and roof repairmen say they are flooded with clients daily.

Of the 11 insurance representatives contacted by The Daily Standard Monday, only three could provide accurate information concerning the number of claims filed with their companies since the storm. The three totaled 1,289 claims and one representative said he got as many as 10

2 Charleston women arrested

Two Charleston women were arrested for stealing over $50 Monday afternoon after they allegedly walked out of Homestead Distributing Co., 1401 E. Malone Ave., with $74 worth of pantsuits.

The women were arrested by Charleston police at about 3 p.m. The alleged theft occurred at 1 p.m.

Lewis injured in accident

Joseph Earl Lewis, 66, of Route Three, was injured in a two- car accident Monday afternoon at the intersection of South Kingshighway and IGA Road.

Lewis was treated at a doctor's office for his injuries, according to police.

Police said the accident occurred at 2 p.m. when a car driven west on IGA Road by Virginia Lee Armstrong, 61, of 707 Taylor St. pulled onto South Kingshighway and struck the side of the Lewis car. Lewis was southbound at the time of the accident.

Police said no arrests were made.

Burning trash ignites grass

Firemen were called at 5:55 p.m. Monday to a grassfire near Security Federal Savings and Loan Association on North Main Street.

The fire, caused by sparks from a barrel of burning trash, burned off about a quarter of an acre of grass before being extinguished, firemen said.

Police brutality charges will bring investigation

POPLAR BLUFF — Mayor Denny Lanning has promised an investigation into charges of brutality by Poplar Bluff police officers.

The charges were made by Jimmy D. Coats, now Chaffee police chief. Coats was suspended from the Poplar Bluff department in February 1973 after he allegedly slapped two teen-agers.

"All the councilmen are aware of it (Coats' charges)," Lanning said today, "and they are looking into it."

He said the council may hold a special meeting to review the situation and that he doesn't know how long an investigation will take.

Coats said the alleged brutality occurred during late 1972 and early 1973.

Incidents included a prisoner being dragged down a flight of stairs, with his head striking each step, and prisoners being interrogated while standing on a chair with a noose around their neck and the chair kicked as though to be knocked out from under them.

Four other police officers have asked for an investigation of an incident which they claim occurred last October.

The other officers, William DePriest, William Taylor, Edward Cook and Larry Bacon, said, "We feel that a criminal act has been committed against a civilian."

Bacon's signed statement, portions of which were published in a St. Louis newspaper, said that in October 1973 a man named Steven Powell was arrested on a city warrant. During interrogation, Lt. Haywood Harris, "with his right hand grabbed Powell's neck and shirt and pulled his head back down over the chair. Lt. Harris then struck Powell eight to 10 times in the face with his left hand."

"At no time did Powell offer any resistance except to try to cover his face with his hands," Bacon added.

Other officers tried to pull Harris away, Bacon said, and were finally successful in

THE MINIMUM
WAGE LAW

The new minimum wage law, enacted by Congress earlier this year, went into effect on May 1. Predictably, the law, for all its good intents, already is causing significant unemployment among some groups that need employment the most.

For the first time, domestic workers are included in the minimum wage provisions. There is no doubt that these low- income workers will find it increasingly difficult to find employment at the $1.90 minimum that must be paid them.

And, as summer approaches, the Labor Department reports that, from all indications, teenagers find it very difficult to find jobs. One key reason for low earnings among the young in the past has been that their employment has included a considerable element of on- the - job training. Now, however, they must be paid the same as adults and many employers will opt for experienced workers rather than these youthful, inexperienced job seekers.

Unemployment rates for the young are already far too high and last year averaged three to four times the overall national unemployment rate. President Nixon warned last fall in vetoing the first minimum wage bill passed by Congress that, unless a special exemption was made for hiring the young, a minimum wage bill would "delay — or even prevent — their start toward economic improvement, and create greater demoralization for the age group which should be most enthusiastically involved in America's world of work."

Employers face their own special problems from the new law. Farm workers' wages, at a minimum of $1.30 prior to May 1, will go up more than one-third, to $1.80, by January 1, 1975. Their minimum will reach $2.30 by 1978. Workers in most other categories must be paid $2.10 by next January and will be paid $2.30 by January 1, 1976.

The minimum wage law must be respected and obeyed. At the same time, however, we urge Congress to take a hard look at its potential negative effects with a view toward altering the law in the near future if it appears necessary.

THIS ISN'T
BIG SPRINGS
COUNTRY

For purposes of promoting tourism, the Missouri Tourism Commission has for the past several years published a pamphlet full of beautiful illustrations of the various sections of the state.

Now that the Bond administration has come to power in Jefferson City, we note that the Delta area of Missouri no longer exists — at least for purposes of tourism.

The Bootheel area of Missouri, which is close in climate, topography, economy and sentiments, to the nation's Southland, is now, according to the Missouri Tourism Commission, a part of the "Big Springs" region of the state.

Perhaps the present members of the Tourism Commission have never visited either the Big Springs region or the Delta area. Certainly no one from those regions is currently a member of the Tourism Commission, which has representation from St. Louis, Cabool, Carthage, Cassville, Silver Dollar City, Kansas City, Hannibal and Osage Beach.

If these people had visited the southeastern quarter of the state, we are certain they would not have lumped our area in with the Big Springs region.

The folks from Cape Girardeau north to Ste. Genevieve are also unhappy over the new Tourism booklet, since their "Old Settlement" Area, like our "Delta Area" is now a part of "Big Springs" country.

We think the Big Springs region is beautiful, and worthy of promotion in this booklet. It may even have more to offer tourists than the Delta Contry and the River counties to the north of us.

But it is downright misleading to tell a tourism, at least by implication, that he will find in our area of the state attractions similar to those of the Big Springs area.

We urge the commission to remedy the situation in the future editions of its pamphlet, and hope Governor Bond will appoint to the Tourism Commission someone who has at least passing acquaintance with those areas of the state which have received short shrift from this publicity agency of our state government.

Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen hit the nail on the head when he said restoration of discipline in all phases of American life is required if the current trend of moral decline in the U. S. is to be reversed.

The noted churchman said "the only place discipline is maintained is at West Point, Annapolis, the Air Force Academy, and on the professional football field."

He went on further to say that he was concerned about the breakdown of American family life and the widespread disrespect for the sacredness of life, exemplified by the acceptance of abortion by many persons.

Because of the prevalence of crime and dishonesty today, he said, it is hard to tell young persons that Americans regularly left their homes unlocked just 30 or 40 years ago.

Lack of discipline is the primary cause of most of our troubles today. When Daniel Ellsberg stole the Pentagon Papers thousands condoned the act and tried to make a martyr out of him. You must remember that Ellsberg was highly paid and took an oath to defend the Constitution when he took the job.

Many government employees regulary sell confidential secrets to such newsmen as Jack Anderson, the New York Times, Washington Post and other commentators and newspapers. These men and women are paid money to betray their trust and seldom are they ever punished.

Criminal laws are so lenient it is possible to kill ten or more people in some States and get off with a life sentence. Many first offenders can rob a bank and then are put on probation. Other serious crimes are handled lightly especially if the culprits have 'good' lawyers.

It's easy to get bail and many offenders walk the streets for months until their trial comes up which usually can be delayed almost indefinitely.

Discipline is lacking in most schools, especially the universities where just about anything goes. Appeasement is universal and no one wants to punish anyone except possibly Nixon mainly because of his political ties.

As long as strict discipline is frowned on you can be certain crime and dishonest acts will continue to run rampant.

It is high time we take a good long look at our so-called laws and start enforcing them before the entire judicial code collapses from its own weight.

Sooner or later, a man, if he is wise, discovers that business life is a mixture of good days and bad, victory and defeat, give and take. He learns that ...

— it doesn't pay to be a sensitive soul — that he should let some things go over his head.

— he who loses his temper usually loses.

— all men have burned toast for breakfast now and then, and that he shouldn't take the other fellow's grouch too seriously.

— carrying a chip on his shoulder is the easiest way to get into a fight.

— it doesn't matter so much who gets the credit as long as the business shows a profit.

— buck- passing usually turns out to be a boomerang.

— it doesn't do any harm to smile and say, "Good morning," even if it is raining.

— a lot of other fellows are as ambitious as he is, that they have brains that are as good or better, and that hard work and not cleverness is the secret of success.

—most bosses are not monsters trying to get the last ounce of work out of him for the least amount of pay.

— the gang is not any harder to get along with in one place than another, and that "getting along" depends about 98 per cent on his own behavior.

A MIXED BLESSING

According to a press report, the federal Food and Drug Administration alone ordered the recall of more than 1,400 products last year. The list included 365 foods, 927 drugs, 90 devices and 44 cosmetics. Everyone is familiar with the recall of autos by auto companies.

Unquestionably, the recall of products for correction of defects is often in response to legitimate complaints. But, there is another side to the recall of products that few of us pause to think about. As the press report states: "Did you ever wonder who pays the expenses of recalling a product found to be faulty... Large, financially strong companies so far have chosen to rely on self-insurance. Many smaller companies are badly exposed, with neither the insurance nor the capability of surviving a recall. Such companies are facing growing risks and maybe even bankruptcy as their products encounter government and customer vigilance against items considered to be health or safety hazards."

Here again is an illustration of how everyone is penalized when legitimate concern for the consumer's welfare gives way to consumer fanaticism. It i well to remember that every time a product must be recalled there is a good chance that jobs may be put in jeopardy and that a company may face the possibility of bankruptcy.

AMTRAK PROVES
WALKING'S FASTER

Yes, Virginia, there is an Amtrak — if you can find it.

The experience of one would-be train traveler in Cleveland may not be typical, since that city is not among those served by the government - run passenger railroad network. But it does suggest that the folks at Amtrak are not exactly going out of their way to woo people back to trains.

Time: 9:00 a.m. Wanting a timetable for lines from Chicago to the West Coast, he first tried to get hold of Amtrak. No soap. Number in telephone book was "not in service." Finally called Penn Central freight department, where someone came up with a Watts (toll-free) number in New York.

Dialed and dialed. Busy singal. Got the operator. She got a line to a recording which said that the call would be handled "sequentially," which evidently meant something like "all deliberate speed," as they say in the legal profession.

Line went dead.

Dialed again. This time got a recorded announcement that "due to the energy crisis all lines are tied up."

More dialing and waiting. Finally at 12:17 p.m. reached a nice lady who said she would refer the request for a timetable to "special service."

Elapsed time: 3 hours, 17 minutes. In one more hour, he could have been on the West Coast by plane from Cleveland.

And that's only the beginning, he says. First he's got to get to Chicago before he can even find a train.

Wrong. First he's got to get the timetable, courtesy of the U. S. Postal Service.

SENATE REJECTS
PSYCHOLOGICAL PRIVACY
FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

By a vote of 43 to 40, the United States Senate has struck down an amendment to the latest federal aid to education bill to protect the psychological and personal privacy of school children. The amendment would have required parents to be notified when highly personal psychological tests or "behavior- alternation and value- modification" techniques were to be used on their children; it would have retained the right of parents to refuse permission for their children to take these tests or undergo these techniques in any federally funded program.

The National Education Association opposed the amendment, stating flatly that the school official has a "more fundamental right" than parents "to determine whether the child should be subject to programs of behavior-alteration and value-modification." The Nixon Administration, according to thyWashington Post, opposed the amendment because it would allegedly "stifel research, questionnaires and experimental programs of real educational value."

The psychological tests at issue involve probing personal questions for children about their home life and their parents.

A few usually right- side Senators voted against the amendment, apparently unaware of its far- reaching importance. With federal funding taking over more of public education, only action by Congress can safeguard the privacy and mental security of our children from those who seek to probe or even brainwash them without regard to the wishes of the parents. 20 YEARS LATER

PARIS — One of the main reason I came back to Paris was to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the breaking of the six- minute Louvre. It was exactly 20 years ago to the day that a young American student named Peter Stone amazed the world by going through the Louvre museum in five minutes and 19 seconds.

As everyone knows, there are only three things worth seeing in the Louvre museum -- the Venus de Milo, the Winged Victory and the Mona Lisa. The rest of the stuff is all junk.

For years tourists have been trying to get through the Louvre as quickly as possible, see those three things and then go out shopping again.

Before World War II, the record for going through the Louvre was seven minutes and 14 seconds. But after the war, as clothes got lighter and cameras got smaller, people kept cutting down the time, and in 1948 a man known as the Swedish Cannonball, paced by his Welsh wife, did it in six minutes and 12 seconds. For the first time, there was serious talk of breaking the six- minute Louvre.

But it was to be four more years. On June 18, 1954, Peter Stone, under perfect tourist conditions, literally flew through the Louvre, around the Venus de Milo, up past the Winged Victory, down to the Mona Lisa and back out again into a waiting taxi. He achieved the impossible, bringing fame and wealth to himself and glory to his country.

President Eisenhower personally sent him a telegram which read: "I rejoice with all Americans at your amazing feat. You're what the United States is all about."

So here I was 20 years later at the Louvre museum with Peter Stone to relive that great moment in history.

Stone, now middle- age, paunchy and slightly gray, went unrecognized by most of the tourists who were going through the Louvre. As we went over the same course, he noted, "It's all different now. There are very few American tourists any more, and it's only a matter of time before the Japanese will take the record away from us."

"Peter, I was there the day you broke the six- minute Louvre," I said. "I remember your telling me at the time that you were going to do it. What made you so sure?"

"I had discovered something that nobody else knew," he said as we walked around the Venus de Milo, "and that was you didn't have to pay admission on Sunday mornings to get into the Louvre. In that way, I could cut 20 seconds from my time. The second thg I did was leave the film out of my camera. I carried less weight than other tourists. Finally, I had developed a nonskid sneaker in the States so I could make the sharp turns around the Winged Victory without slipping on the marble."

We walked up the marble staircase past the Winged Victory. "This is where I made up 30 seconds," Peter said. "Most tourists look at the back of the Winged Victory, but I said to myself, 'If you 've seen one Winged Victory, you've seen them all,' and I just whizzed by without stopping."

"What did you do after you broke the 6-minute Louvre?" I asked Peter.

"I did some exhibition running at the Prado in Spain and the Tate Gallery in London. The Russians invited me to run through the Hermitage in Leningrad. It was the first tiem the Soviets had ever asked an American to race through one of their museums. But it was during the height of the cold war and John Foster Dulles wouldn't let me do it."

"So here it is 20 years later. What happens to a Louvre champ as time goes on?"

Peter replied: "The legs go first, then the wind and finally the eyes. I doubt if I can get through the Louvre in 10 minutes now in any condition."

We arrived at where the Mona Lisa hung when Peter had broken the record. The picture wasn't there! I asked an old guard, "Where is the Mona Lisa?"

The guard shrugged his shoulders and replied: "in Japan."

Tears came to Peter's eyes as he said: "It figures."

God, Grapes and Pickets: Powerful Hosts of Major Religions Rally To Chavez as He Marches Boycott Into East

NEW YORK — Open-collared, tieless, and a spiritual aura almost a haze around him, farm workers' leader Cesar Chavez is marching east leading hosts of clergymen. Wherever he comes now, leaving the grapevines and lettuce fields behind him, there spring up massed phalanxes of priests, ministers, rabbis, nuns, seminary students and some militant labor leaders ready to shout boycott and defiance against the big Teamster Brotherhood.

Rarely, if ever, has there been such a legion of churchmen throwing themselves into a jurisdictional labor "dispute." This conflict now is more revival than a Chavezian fight for survival.

Wherever the slim little Chicano chief goes, folk singers are at his side, church and temple doors open, and there's a strange welding of nostalgic old radicalism and new "militantism" such as personified by William Kunstler, all in turn blended with ecclesiastical fervor.

In most big cities now being, or about to be, visited by Chavez, the action pattern is virtually the same. Few presidential candidates ever moved with more precision. Or with better advance men. In the morning usually there is a conference with an ecumenical clerical group -- leaders of the three major religions.

Then comes the labor reception. Ecumenical too. Here gather, probably at a luncheon, officials of the AFL-CIO, the United Auto Workers, the United Mine Workers, and other independents.

Finally in the evening there is the inevitable "mass" rally in a church. In this city these church meetings will shortly be in St .Paul the Apostle Church and the Broadway Temple-Washington Heights United Methodist Church. On July 1 in Paterson (N.J.) they will gather in St. John's Cathedral. In Philadelphia the other week it was in a Unitarian house of worship, after a lunchtime session in a teachers' union headquarters.

These are mighty hosts -- especially when coupled with AFL-CIO president George Meany.

But Teamsters chief Frank Fitzsimmons, in truck- stop jargon, is telling them to go to perdition.

Instead they are heading for giant shopping centers -- concentrating on big supermarket chains and produce distribution markets.

They have the contacts. Fitzsimmons has the contracts -- some 316 growers, hiring an average of 50,000 grape- and lettuce- pickers in season. They have the pickets and what almost literally has become a holy war. And Fitzsimmons claims they have the media's sympathy -- and he can't get the Teamsters viewpoint before the public as Chavez begins pushing his grape and lettuce boycott up and down the East Coast.

It's pointed out that not "all" the clergy is with the Chavez- Meany coalition. There is, for example, the pastor of Our Lady of Soledad Church, Coachella, Calif. -- where the action is. This is Father Richard Humphrys. His hosts are his parishioners, mostly Chicanos.

Father Richard makes these points:

"It is stated that all or most farmworkers live in poverty. One church paper printd in Long Island (N.Y.) went so far as to say that 'the average income of a farmworker family of four is $3,170.' Both the Teamsters and UFW contracts bring workers in the grape vineyards over $3 an hour.

"There is a base pay of $2.51 in the UFW contract and $2.41 in the Teamster contract. In addition, workers receive pay for considerable piecework that brings the total to over $3 an hour ... (and) workers receive 10 cents an hour on a health plan, 10 cents an hour on a pension plan (in the Teamsters). UFW receives 2 cents a box or about 1.5 cents an hour."

The Teamsters contract provides for unemployment insurance, social security, workingmen's compensation, etc. --"The grower is paying the maximum amount he can at this time and stay in business."

Father Richard asks for evenhanded criticism of both unions, the Teamsters new Local 1973 and the United Farm Workers.

Further, says Father Richard, "The Teamsters have unemployment insurance whereas the UFW does not. this costs the growers 3.9 per cent of gross wages and is one of the benefits farmworkers need most." Earlier the priest said, "Teamster contracts cost growers more than UFW contracts. The most recent Teamster contract ... cost growers 5 per cent more than any table grape contract in California."

Thus there seems to be a struggle between the hard-nosed traditional unionsim of the Treamsters and the evangelicalism of Cesar Chavez, seeking to lead his own people on the very soil on which they live.

If Father Richard is right, the issue of the boycott actually is whether a giant union or one of their own shall lead the "stoop" labor of the "factories in the fields."

The issue is the eternal battle between the avant-garde and the establishment. The issue should be decided eventually not on the concrete of urban America but by the pickers themselves in the California valleys -- before sidewalks are bloodstained, commerce disrupted, and civil war flash- fire through religious orders and the labor movement.

If the farm workers can prosper under either leadership, let them now be given the voice and means to decide which house they shall enter.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
New CIA Watergate Link

WASHINGTON - CIA front man Robert Bennett, son of veteran Sen. Wallace Bennett, R-Utah, has conceded that he knew a White House burglary- bugging team was on the prowl in advance of the celebrated Watergate break- in.

A secret memorandum, written by his CIA case officer, states that the senator's son withheld vital information from the authorities.

In an interview with my associate Les Whitten, Bennett acknowledged he knew at least three days before the Watergate burglary that White House aide E. Howard Hunt and his second- story crew had plotted to break into the campaign headquarters of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and bug the place.

Instead of reporting the conspiracy to the police, Bennett kept his mouth shut. He also confided to his CIA contact that he had held back information from the original Watergate prosecutors when they later questioned him about the Watergate break- in.

Had Bennett informed the police of the plot to bust into McGovern headquarters, as the law requires, the subsequent Watergate caper would have been aborted and the course of history might have been changed.

This episode is another link in the mysterious CIA involvement in Watergate. We uncovered the first piece of the puzzle as early as April 7, 1973, when we reported that the CIA had "ordered its agents not to talk to the FBI about the explosive Watergate case." Thereafter, we published several reports about the CIA and Watergate, but the full story still hasn't been told.

The CIA used Bennett's public relations firm, Mullen and Company, as a spy front. On its payroll was none other than Howard Hunt, the Watergate conspirator, who came to the firm from the CIA and later moved over to the White House.

Bennett's nephew referred a Brigham Young University student, named Thomas Gregory, to Hunt who recruited the young man as a political spy. Gregory infiltrated into the campaigns of the President's two chief Democratic rivals -- first, Sen. Edmund Muskie's staff, then Sen. George McGovern's staff.

But Gregory, a conscientious Mormon, became uneasy about his undercover work. He spoke to his bishop about it, who was concerned about the ethics of the job.

Then Gregory went back to Bennett and explained his misgivings. As Bennett related it, Gregory had been told by Hunt to work late one night at McGovern headquarters and leave a door open so the White House burglars could sneak in.

Gregory informed Bennett that Hunt was "reporting to someone higher up." Hunt's White House connections impressed young Gregory. Bennett said he also felt Hunt would do nothing illegal because "he had a full - time lawyer advising him." The lawyer, it turned out, was Hunt's co- conspirator, G. Gordon Liddy.

Bennett said he advised Gregory "to get out." The troubled student gave Bennett a letter of resignation to deliver to Hunt. Two days later, the Hunt- Liddy team broke into the Watergate.

Bennett was called in for questioning six times by the original Watergate prosecutors. He held back Gregory's vital information out of loyalty to the youth, Bennett claims.

But the prosecutors traced Bennett's long- distance telephone toll calls to Gregory. When Bennett learned this, he called the prosecutors and said: "Look, you've found Tommy. I'll tell you about Tommy."

This helped the prosecutors to break the Watergate case.

PENTAGON PUPPET:
Once again, we have caught Rep. F. Edward Hebert; D-La., playing Charlie McCarthyto the Pentagon's Edgar Bergen. Perched upon the Defense Department's knee, he opens his mouth and the military speaks.

A month ago, we reported that Hebert, the imperious chairman of the House Armed Service Committee, had presented to the House a report on military aid to Saigon which was copied, virtually word for word, from Pentagon testimony.

Now, the crusty, old congressional "watchdog" has done it again. Included in his committee report on the Pentagon's supplemental budget request is a section on the Navy's proposal for a permanent base on the Indian Ocean island of Diego Garcia.

It is practically a carbon copy of testimony offered by Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, the Navy chief, before a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on March 20.

Apparently, Hebert's only disagreement with the Pentagon is over grammar. He tinkered slightly with the Navy's paragraphing and punctuation. He also edited out some of Zumwalt's "I's" and "We's" and substituted a few "observers."

"I always knew Hebert and his boys were pushovers for the Pentagon," one of Hebert's committee told us, "but I never expected them to prove it so decisively. I am ashamed to say that right now the committee is nothing but a rubber stamp for the Pentagon."

Footnote: Repeated calls to the committee for comment have not been returned.

REALTOR

WRONG PRICING LOGIC

If you try to sell your home yourslef, how do you set a realistic price? Most people base their price tags on the only facts known to them: original price, cost of improvements, and hoped-for profit. Then they adjust to bring their figure in line with what they think similar homes are bringing. Sounds reasonable, but three of the basic facts are irrevelent, and the fourth is highly dubious.

The original price, improvements, and hopef-for profit only determine whether you gain or lose, but they have nothing to do with the right price to produce a sale. Prices of other homes may give you some clue to the market, but most of the time you only hear of the asking price. If it's not a realistic price, it won't be the selling price.

How then do you set a realistic price? By consulting a local Realtor whose business it is to know how much property can bring and will bring. His knowledge of the market is invaluable.

Ann Landers

Drug addicts find ways to get drugs

Dear Ann Landers: When I read that letter from the director of a hospital who mentioned pilfering of small items by hospital personnel, I knew I had to write.

Our 24- year- old daughter (college graduate and excellent student) left an unusually fine poition with a promising future to take a job for less pay in the accounting department of a suburban hospital. We couldn't understand it. She said she wanted to "be part of an institution that served humanity."

About three months later, the real reason became apparent. She wanted to become friendly with someone who could help her gain access to drugs.

It was a nightmare. She changed from a bright, energetic, outgoing person into a secretive, temperamental stranger. Some days she was talkative and full of energy. Other days she was depreseed and non- communicative. When I found a huge supply of pills and a syringe under her mattress, I knew the answers to many question that had us mystified.

She is under a doctor's care now and returning to her old self. But it's been an uphill fight all the way.

Why don't hospitals keep all narcotics under lock and key? I'm sure if this happened to our child it has happened to others. Thanks, Ann, for any boost you might give this crusade. -- Been Thru Hell

Dear B.: I know of no hospital that allows employees easy access to drugs. Almost all hospitals have a carefully monitored drug- dispensing system. But no system is fail-safe. Drug addicts are among the cleverest of all thieves, and the most daring as well. When drugs become the center of a person's existence, he will figure out a way to get them.

Dear Ann Landers: I've seen some letters in your column from teen-agers who do baby- sitting, but I've never read a letter from a "career-sitter."

I've "raised" over 50 children, from newborns to 11 years of age. Some mothers still insist on calling me "the baby- sitter." ("Say hello to the baby- sitter.") I have a name and the kids use it, so why can't their parents?

Staying with youngsters has been my only source of income for many years. I pay taxes on my earnings. Yet, I've had mothers call and cancel two hours before I was due to leave the house. "Mary is going to stay with a friend," they say, or, "My hustand doesn't feel well and we've decided to stay home." Frequently I've turned down other jobs and saved the evening for them. But they never think to pay me when they cancel.

Most of the people I work for are sophisticated, yet they act as if they've never heard of overtime. When they say they'll be home at midnight, and arrive at 2:00 a.m., I get the same pay for my "night's work."

In spite of my complaints, I've been happy with my children. They've kept me active and saved me from loneliness. I guess I just wish people would be more considerate and I figured your column was a good place to tell them. -- Granny

Dear Granny: Your complaints could be easily remedied if you would discuss them with your employers instead of Ann Landers.

Tell them you expect to be paid if they cancel without giving 24 hours notice. Charge by the hour instead of the job if people don't know the meaning of "overtime." And when they refer to you as "the baby- sitter," remind them that you have a name. Simple, isn't it?

Are you, or is someone you care about messing around with drugs -- or considering it? Are all drugs bad? What about pot -- in moderation? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs," separates the facts from the fiction. For each booklet ordered, send a dollar bill plus a long, self- addressed envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Gibson shows top form

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "You never cruise, especially against a ball club like that," a perspiring Bob Gibson maintained.

The aging Gibson, staked to an early lead, undelined the notation Monday night by bearing down and stopping the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-0 on a four-hitter.

His top performance of the season checked his string of defeats at five and capped a St. Louis Cardinal sweep of a doubleheader.

"Sometimes you just have to pitch yourself out of a rut," observed Gibson, 4-8, who struck out 11 and walked three following a 3-1 Cards triumph in the opener.

"I felt fairly good tonight," he conceded, "but I've been feeling good for the past two or three weeks.

"Basically it was a matter of not hanging a lot of sliders like I'd been doing. I think I'd been hanging one out of every three."

The 38-year-old Gibson permitted singles to Paul Popovich, Gene Clines and Mike Ryan and a double to Richie Zisk leading off the fourth.

But he fanned Pirates rookie Mario Mendoza after a spectacular catch by Lou Brock thwarted a second-inning threat and struck out Willie Stargell and Kurt Bevacqua after Zisk doubled.

Meanwhile, Pirates pitcher Larry Demery, 0-3, surrendered Jim Dwyer's first major league home run in the second and served a three-run homer to Ted Simmons an inning later.

"I've been throwing the ball good for a month," insisted Gibson, wo has yielded 12 home runs, "but I've been giving up that long ball after a walk."

The Cards, who totaled only five hits, also made the most of six singles in the opener.

Four of the blows included run-producing smashes by Ken Reitz and Mike Tyson in the second off ex-Cardinal Jerry Reuss, 6-5, and a third run scored on an error.

Right-hander Alan Foster, 35, survived Richie Hebner's leadoff home run in the sixth and drew relief help from Orlando Pena and Mike Garman the final two innings.

Pirates Manager Danny Murtaugh, whose club has lost five of six games since winning six straight, was down following the double loss.

"I thought when we hit that streak we might be going," Murtaugh lamented. "Now it looks like we've cooled off again."

WFL resumes recruiting

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The World Football League has vowed to "vigorously continue" efforts to sign National Football League players after a Texas appellate court ruling that cleared the way for WFL recruiting of Dallas Cowboy athletes.

Appeals Court Judge Harold Bateman of Dallas reversed a lower court injunction Monday that had halted WFL recruiting of players from the National Football League team.

WFL Commissioner Gary L. Davidson, organizer of the new league, said the ruling confirmed the WFL's belief "in the freedom of competition between leagues and the freedom of players to have viable alternatives in choosing employers."

He added that the WFL "has not, and will not in the future, violate the valid terms of any presently existing contract ..." He said players obligated to the NFL for 1975 and who have signed with the WFL would not join the WFL until 1976.

Tex Schramm, Cowboys' president and general manager, said he would have no comment on Judge Bateman's decision until club attorneys read the opinion.

Texas District Court Judge Charles Long had issued an injunction that barred WFL recruiting of Cowboys Calvin Hill, Craig Morton and Mike Montgomery. The injunction was granted to the Cowboys, who described the WFL recruiting as "raiding."

Hill, Morton and Montgomery had signed contracts with Hawaii, Houston and Birmingham of the WFL, respectively.

Bateman disagreed with the Cowboys' claims that the WFL recruitment was illegal meddling in player contracts.

"We must consider the freedom of contract of the individual players as well as the rights of the club under its present contracts," he said.

"Bargaining for future services is a matter of economics. The club can assure itself of the continued services and loyalty of its players by offering them long term contracts and other financial inducements. If it chooses not to do so for economic reasons, it has no legal ground to complain if the players look elsewhere for their future careers and enter into contracts for services to be performed when their present contracts with the club expire."

The WFL also has signed a number of players from other NFL clubs to contracts for 1976. One club guaranteed $3.5 million to hire Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick from the Miami Dolphins.

Other NFL stars to sign with the fledgling league include quarterback Daryle Lamonica of Oakland, linebacker Bill Bergey of Cincinnati and running back Larry Smith of the Los Angeles Rams.

Davis puts on one man show in ML

Davis singled, doubled and homered to spark Kingsway Plaza to a 16-6 four-inning victory over the Bank of Sikeston to highlight Musial league play Monday night. Collins Construction pulled out a 8-7 decision over Rotary, scoring the winning run in the last of the sixth in the other league encounter.

Kingsway broke open a scoreless leadlock with eight big runs in the second inning while Bailey held the bank to two hits.

Merrell, Thompson and Johnson doubled to highlight the Plaza's 12 hit barrage that was led by Arnold and Davis' three for three showings.

Rotary did everything but post the win in the other game, out-hitting Collins 12-8 and rallying to tie the score at 7-7 in the top of the seventh to only lose the game in the bottom of the frame. A five run first inning by Collins spelled the difference.

Stinnett picked up the victory and got extra base hit backing from Kyle, who doubled.

Beaudean had four hits to pace the Rotary attack and McGill and O'Neal doubled for the losers.

Garner, Watkins, Cecil, Yates, Jackson, T. Sanders, Smith and Beasly doubled to highlight the slugfest.

Self, Daniels show strong arms

Pitching ruled the National Little League circuit Monday night as Kiwanis blanked the Lions 1-0 and Security National defeated Lewis Furniture 12-2.

Self held the Lions to only two hits and used the extra based slugging of Harper, who connected for a pair of doubled, to defeat King and his double hitting teammates, Branson and Winfield.

Daniels fell behind 2-0 in the first inning, but settled down and allowed Lewis only two hits on the night while his teammates, Rodgers, Williams and Shelton connected for two hits apiece for a six hit Security attack. Rodgers doubled for one of his hits.

Record toss

JOPLIN, Mo.(AP)—James Calvin Young, 18, claims to have broken a record Monday found only in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Young, whose only witness was his brother, Alan, says he threw a golfball around a regulation length course, from No. 1 tee through No. 18 green, in just 91 tosses.

This would shatter the old mark listed in the Guinness book of 93 tosses, set Oct. 5, 1971 by A. L. Gastin on the University of Missouri course in Columbia.

Alan Young, 20, said the Twin Hills Golf and Country Club course his brother zipped around Monday measured about 6,200 yards. The Guinness book says Gastin accomplished his feat on a 6,220-yard layout.

Pitching performances overshadowed

Despite the three hit pitching performance of Francis, Home Materials fell 3-2 to the Bank of Sikeston in Jr. Babe Ruth action Monday night. The Eagles recorded almost a similar feat by defeating Harts 7-1 despite the three hit hurling of Brown.

The bank scored runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings to give Launius the victory. Francis had two hits for Home Materials in their losing effort.

Cloud held Harts to eight hits and a fourth inning run while enjoying a five run seventh inning uprising to record the win.

Gilbow connected for a key double for the Eagles and Hampton hit one for Harts and had a perfect night at the plate with a three for three showing.

Lessons for Young Bicyclists to Learn

Chief Leon R. Culp
Sikeston Police Department

Lesson No. 8 - Country Riding Safety

Riding your bike in the country can be one of the most enjoyable adventures of biking. Before going on a bike trip in the country, it is wise to "check-out" all mechanical functions of your bicycle and make sure that everything is working in good order. If you don't do this, you may find yourself stranded a long way from home. Remember, even the captain of an airliner checks-out his plane before taking off, because he knows that he is responsible for anything that may happen to it, himself and others who may be flying with him.

Often when boys and girls go biking in the country they want to take along some supplies; food for an outdoor lunch the way, raincoat, a tent if they plan to be out over night, or other things of use on a trip. Anything you wish to take with you should be wrapped and carried on the back luggage carrier of your bike, and securely strapped down. This is to prevent the possibility of loose items getting tangled in the rear wheel or the bike chain.

When selecting the route you will take for your trip avoid highways you know are very busy. Of course, never travel on an interstate highway, as bicycles are not allowed on them.

Now, even though you are traveling on a highway that isn't very busy, you must remain just as alert as you are when you are riding in city streets. ALL traffic signals MUST still be obeyed. STOP signs still mean STOP, and do not fail to heed them. Think of it this way: if there is very little traffic and you are approaching a country stop sign and you see no cars coming from either direction. If you proceed through the stop intersection without stopping you are still taking a big chance. A car could easily come up over a hill, from one of the other directions, and if it were moving at high speed, it could be at the intersection in a few seconds.

The main thing to remember in country biking is that cars are traveling at higher speeds by far than they are in the city. This means that you must be extra cautious that you are riding WITH traffic, staying to the extreme right side of the road. Often you will see people on bikes riding on the far left side of the road, directly toward the oncoming traffic. This is WRONG! Do not do it! It is very dangerous.

If the weather becomes dark and cloudy, use your lights! Don't wait for it to become completely dark....a fast-moving car needs several hundred feet to see you! Make sure that you have on light colored clothing for all country riding.

Never, under any circumstances, ride in the middle of the road or do bike trick-riding in the country on the highway. There are too many hills and valleys that could hide an approaching car from your vision, and you from the driver's vision.

In country riding there are many occasions when you will want to stop and rest. Do your resting well back away from the highway. A speeding car could go out of control and go off the road quite easily, and if you were sitting right at the edge of the roadway you could be hit.

When you are riding in a group of other bicyclists, always ride SINGLE FILE! Never ride side-by-side! Many bicyclists have been killed because they did not obey this rule for safe country biking!

QUESTIONS	YES	NO
When riding in the country you can forget about traffic rules, if there are very few cars on the road..	___	___
Riding INTO traffic, on the left side of the road, is safe in the country.	___	___
When riding in a group of bicyclists, you should always ride in single file.	___	___
One BIG reason you must be especially careful in the country is because cars are traveling at higher speeds than in the city.	___	___
It is o.k. to do trick riding way out in the country, if you don't see anyone coming.	___	___

Theatre opera seats installed

50 years ago
June 25, 1924

Morehouse -- Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Teal, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Dunaway and Miss Hattie Harp motored to the Pottery Works, north of Dexter, Sunday.

The new opera seats have been installed in the Malone Theatre and they are a great improvement over the old ones. The arrangement is much better as two aisles have been left down the center and across to the side exits.

Fire broke out in the frame building owned by M. A. Arterburn and occupied by E. E. Ferrell as a butcher shop, south of the Frisco station Monday morning and was entirely consumed.

Morehouse -- John Bray, who makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. O. M. Headlee, will leave Friday for St. Louis for an extended visit with his daughter there.

40 years ago
June 25, 1934

Morley — Miss Mary Foster has been on the sick list the last few days.

Salcedo -- Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tate and family, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Tate and family and Mrs. Joe Tate were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ebert Duke, north of Sikeston.

Malone Theatre, today, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in "Change of Heart" with James Dunn and Ginger Rogers. Tomorrow, Spencer Tracy in "Now I'll Tell" with Helen Twelvetrees and Alice Faye.

Pharris Ridge -- Mr. and Mrs. James Lomax and children, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Lomax and sons and Mrs. Albert Moore and children were Lilbourn visitors Sunday.

When Prof. Charles Swartz comes here from Humbolt, Tenn., on July 4, to participate in the municipal airport dedication exercises, visitors at the field will see the first old-time balloon ascension staged in Sikeston for 22 years.

Oran — Mrs. Minnie Gouge moved to Steele recently.

Edwin T. Moon, 69 years old, a resident of Charleston for 29 years, died early Friday after being ill four years.

Mrs. V. L. Kirby and daughter, Sandra Lee, spent the weekend in Independence, Kas., with the former's brother- in- law and sister, T. and Mrs. Howard Kramer.

The Sikeston General Hospital has been removed from the approved list of hospitals by Dr. M. L. Gentry, director of the division of child hygiene of the State Board of Health. In a letter to Otto Muncorf, technician and business manager of the local hospital, Dr. Gentry said the action had been taken because requirements established by State Board had not been complied with. The charges are aimed specifically at the care of obstetrical cases.

Charleston -- Mrs. Erie Pomeray, 69, a life-long resident here, died this morning at St. Mary's Hospital in Cairo, Ill., where she had been admitted five hours earlier. She had been ill the past two and a half months, a victim of leukemia.

The Rev. and Mrs. Norbert John Lucht of Malden are parents of a son born at the Delta Community Hospital on Friday.

Mrs. Laura Slack, 86, a member of one of Sikeston's pioneer families, passed away in a Jefferson City nursing home Sunday after a long illness.

Charleston -- Services for U. E. Kinder of Glen Allen, father of Fred Kinder of Charleston, will be Tuesday. He died Sunday.

Honduras and El Salvador have been at war with each other since 1969. The conflict, touched off by a disputed soccer match, centers on the contested border and rights of Salvadorians in Honduras.

The case of the renegging banker

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Mr. Jones, a banker, was no more nimble in passing out money than he was in crossing a street. In fact, had it not been for Elmer, who fortunately pulled him out of the way of an oncoming vehicle, he certainly would have been killed.

Very appreciative of Elmer's gallant effort, Mr. Jones pumped Elmer's hand with enough gusto to make water flow. What's more, he generously promised to give Elmer $1,000 for his heroic Deed.

When Elmer turned up at the bank, however, to collect the money, Mr. Jones' sense of appreciation had dampened considerably. He refused to pay Elmer the promised $1,000.

"You can't do that," protested Elmer. "You promised and a promise is a promise."

"Sure I promised," admitted Mr. Jones, "but bankers just don't go around giving away money. It's bad for their image and contrary to the nature and training. Besides, he added, "I had no obligation to make the promise so I have no obligation to keep it."

Disgusted with Mr. Jones, Elmer sued to collect the $1,000 in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the banker to renege on his promise?

This is how the judge guled: YES! The judge held that a contract is not binding unless somethiis given in exchange for something. And, in this case, noted the judge, Mr. Jones received nothing in exchange for his promise to pay Elmer $1,000. Elmer has performed his gallant and humanitarian act voluntarily and prior to any promise of payment having been made.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton will be the featured speaker at the banquet. Burlison criticizes impeachment delay

WASHINGTON — Persons in Southeast Missouri and Americans generally feel "intense disgust" over the House's unwarranted delay in the presidential impeachment proceedings and are demanding a speedy conclusion, Rep. Bill D. Burlison, D-Mo., has said.

In an implied rebuke to House Democratic leaders, Burlison said virtually all of his 10th District constituents, regardless of their opinions about Nixon, "are united in their almost emotional insistence that the Congress get busy now and conclude the impeachment process."

His warning, underlined in a House speech by being explicitly addressed to House Speaker Carl Albert D-Okla., and Judiciary Committee chairman Peter W. Rodino D-N.J., represented one of the few instances where a Democrat was willing to break ranks openly and criticize his leaders' conduct of the impeachment proceeding.

Commenting on reports that the proceeding may drag on until after the November elections or even into 1975, Burlison said such a timetable "is totally unacceptable."

"What the final verdict may be is far less important to our citizens than that there be a verdict soon.

"Suffice it to say that our total governmental process is in a state of partial paralysis," Burlison said.

"We should put this malady behind us by facing the problem, making a decision and then uniting to move our country forward."

Burlison said he believes House Democratic leaders "are not aware" of public disenchantment with the slowness of the impeachment case.

"Of course, I can speak only for my people, but I believe they are representative of the entire country," he said.

"I realize a strong case can be made that the President has not been cooperative and has refused to provide tapes, documents and other evidence and has delayed the proceeding.

"It is my view, however, that our constituents would prefer us to give consideration to that action as an impeachable offense in itself, in preference to plodding through the courts in time- consuming efforts to enforce our subpoenas.

"Many of Missouri's 10th District voters feel Mr. Nixon has flagrantly betrayed his public trust and must be removed from office. Many others believe, in varying degrees, that he has committed improper or illegal acts, but that to remove him from office would not be in the best interest of our nation.

"There are yet others who say that the President is innocent and that the charges are contrived by the press and others bent on destroying him."

Despite this "polarization," Burlison said, "almost everyone in the three groups wants a final decision soon."

Demo committee okays delegate selection plan

JEFFERSON CITY — State Democratic chairman David Donnelly has announced the approval of Missouri's delegate selection plan by the Democratic National Committee.

Under the delegate selection plan, which was approved by the Democratic State Committee on June 1, Missouri will be allowed 53 delegates to the 1974 mid-term conference of the Democratic Party. The conference which will be hosted in Kansas City on Dec. 6-8 is charged with the responsibility of approving the charter for the Democratic Party.

Democratic Party chairman Robert Strauss, in his telephone message announcing the approval of the Missouri plan, indicated that 49 states have now had their delegate selection plans approved by the Democratic National Committee.

Castleberry to attend school

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Garland P.Castleberry, a native of Sikeston, Mo., presently employed by the Federal Aviation Administration, has been selected as a Princeton Fellow in public and international affairs and will attend the Woodrow Wilson School at Princeton University, according to FAA Administrator Alexander P. Butterfield.

Presently, executive secretary in the office of the FAA administrator, Castelberry was accepted into the education program for federal officials at mid career for studies beginning this fall. The Woodrow Wilson Fellowship at Princeton accepts five to 10 civil servants who have demonstrated high competence and unusual promise into the program each year.

A career civil servant with broad managerial experience, Castleberry began his career as an FAA air traffic controller in the Memphis center in 1958 and transferred to Washington in 1964. He has since served in a number of executive positions, including executive assistant to the deputy administrator, senior policy analyst and management analyst.

In 1965, Castleberry worked in both the Senate and House of Representatives as a Congressional fellow and later served as legislative and special assistant to Congressman Sam Gibbons, a post he held until 1969. He has received a number of awards for outstanding service during his government tenure.

A cum laude graduate of Memphis State University, the Woodrow Wilson appointee received his bachelor of business administration degree in 1963 and has also studied at George Washington University. He graduated from Sikeston High School in 1954.

Castleberry is married to the former Phyllis Alexander of Sikeston. They are the parents of five children.

Castleberry's mother, Mrs. Dorothy DeMaris, is a resident of Sikeston. His father, Paul Castleberry, lives in Pontiac, Mich.
